FOREIGN FLASHES.

Rivalry Between Austrian and Russian Railroad Interests.

Parnell's Secretary Makes a Bitter Speech—The Slave Trade in Soudan.

Great Britain.

DUBLIN, October 19.—Parnell, replying to an address of the Town Commissioners of Roscommon, mentioned that he had received many threatening letters from persons representing themselves to be landlords or agents.

HEALY'S SPEECH.

LONDON, October 19.—Mr. Healy, Parnell's secretary, speaking at a land meeting at Bantry, County Cork, declared there were as many evidences of cruelty and injustice on the estate of Hutchins (who, with his driver, was shot at near Skibbereen, and the latter killed) as on that of the greatest tyrant in Ireland.

Eastern Europe.

LONDON, October 19.—A correspondent at Vienna says telegrams from Athens report a large quantity of ammunition for heavy artillery has been landed at the Pieracus.

DULCIGNO.

A dispatch from Paris states most of the Admirals have been ordered to withdraw as soon as Dulcigno is surrendered.

RAILROAD RIVALRY.

LONDON, October 19.—A dispatch from Bucharest says there is sharp rivalry between the Austrian and Russian railway interests in Bulgaria. The Russians desire precedence in the construction of a line via Sistova, Trenova and Yen Saghra. The Austrians are equally clamorous for connection through Belgrade, Nish and Sofia. The two parties are influenced by the strategic advantages they would secure by the lines they respectively advocate. It is feared at Sofia that these differences may assume an acute form.

CONTRARY TO DECLARATION.

ROME, October 18.—The Diretto says Greece is not in position to act independently, and even if she were the occupation of Thessaly and Epirus would be contrary to the declarations made by the King during his recent tour.

Germany.

BERLIN, October 19.—The Cologne Gazette and Berlin Post combine to attack and denounce Gladstone. The former calls him a dangerous fanatic and attributes the condition in Ireland to the contageon of his revolutionary schemes in the East. The Post accuses him of the pursuit of a policy in the East opposed to the true interests of England.

The Dominion.

HALIFAX, October 19.—The remains of James William Frazer, the Underground Manager of the Albion Mines at Shellarton, who lost his life in the recent disaster, were discovered last night after a five days' search.

France.

PARIS, October 19.—Edouard Wolff, the Polish pianist, is dead.

Egypt.

CAIRO, October 19.—The Official Journal publishes a report of the Deputy Governor of Soudan, emphatically denying that the slave traffic has increased since the departure of General Gordon. He states the work of repression is being actively carried on by the same European officers appointed to the command of the distant Provinces by General Gordon.

AN OMAHA OMELET.

The Railroad Fight—Moody and Sankey—Political.

OMAHA, NEB., October 19.—General Ticket Agent Daniels, of the Wabash Line, arrived here this morning and a cut of $8 20 from Omaha to Chicago, or $16 for round trip tickets unlimited was inaugurated. Over $15,000 worth were sold up to 6 p. m., when the sales were shut down by orders from headquarters, leaving many intending to buy unsupplied. Moody and Sankey held four immense meetings here on Sunday and left to-day for Salt Lake and San Francisco. Ex-United States Senator Tipton, candidate for Governor, addressed a large mass meeting of Democrats, last night.

The Pittsburg Railroad Disaster.

PITTSBURG, PA., October 19.—This morning the county authorities took action in regard to the prosecution of the trainmen found guilty by the Coroner's jury of criminal negligence in causing the accident on the Pacific Railroad at the Twenty-eighth street crossing on Saturday, October 9th. The proceedings are against John Routh, conductor, Wm. J. Penrod, flagman of the first train, and Engineer Hughey, of the second train, and are for misdemeanor under the act of the Assembly. Routh surrendered himself and is out on $10,000 bail. The others will give themselves up to-day. The Commonwealth will likely bring charges of murder.

The Utes and Agent Berry.

SOUTH ARKANSAS, October 19.—The Deputy United States Marshal passed through Gunnison Saturday on his way to arrest Indian Agent Berry. Clane is in jail at Gunnison. Hughes and Holmes have not been heard from. Meachan is at the military camp below the Agency. Berry was not at the Agency Saturday last. It is supposed he is still concealed in the camp waiting instructions from Washington.

The Supreme Court of Missouri.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, MO., October 19.—The Supreme Court met to-day in regular session, and called the first ten cases on the docket. Ten days will be consumed in making the call and no opinions will be rendered till then.

Pimlico Races.

PIMLICO, M. D., October 19.—The first race, one mile, was won by Nora, Crackmore second, Spark third. Time, 1:44¼.

Indications.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 19.—For Ohio and Tennessee Valley, partly cloudy weather, possibly occasional light snow in the Ohio Valley, southeasterly winds, slowly rising temperature and lower barometer. For Lower Lake Region, clear or partly cloudy weather, southwest to southeast winds, slightly higher temperature, and stationary or lower barometer. For Upper Lake Region, partly cloudy weather, possibly occasional snow, slightly warmer southwest to southeast winds, and lower barometer. For Lower Missouri and Mississippi Valleys, clear or partly cloudy weather, preceded in the last district by light snow, southerly to westerly winds, lower barometer, and stationary or higher temperature.

Not Arrested.

DENVER, COL., October 19.—A dispatch received here to-day says Indian Agent Berry has not been arrested and has been secreted either by the Indians or United States troops.

Congressional Nominations.

PHILADELPHIA, October 19.—The Democrats of the Seventh District naminated John Slingluff for Congress.

Heavy Frost in Virginia.

DANVILLE, VA., October 19.—There was a very heavy frost in this region last night. Thin ice formed in some localities.

THE ALPENA.

Portions of the Wrecked Steamer Picked Up on the Shores of Lake Michigan.

Nothing Heard of the Sixty Souls on Board—The Steam Barge Trader Lost With Eleven Persons.

The Ill-Fated Steamer.

CHICAGO, October 19.—The Press correspondent telegraphs from Holland, Michigan, this morning, that a lot of camp stools, part of the forward deck, and the inside portions showing the graining, and evidently belonging to a passenger steamer, were washed ashore about a mile north of the harbor. A bucket marked "Str. Alpena," a spiral stairway and a piano with a lid torn off were found. Men are watching the shore for other portions of the wreck.

The Search for the Wreck.

MONTAGUE, MICH., October 19.—The messenger sent by the Associated Press to Stony Creek yesterday returned at 2 o'clock a. m. with the information that the reported cabin washed ashore at that place and supposed to be that of the Alpena proves to be nothing more than a small portion of the promenade deck of the barge Trader, which was waterlogged last Monday night. The two sections found near the White Lake piers, and supposed to be apart of the Alpena's wheel rope, belong probably to the Trader. On account of the drift wood and lumber which had been thrown upon the beach and laid in one endless heap six feet in height, the patrolmen considered it decidedly useless to look further during the night and will therefore wait till daybreak, when they will continue their search.

The Passengers.

CHICAGO, October 19.—Grand Haven, Mich. Passengers on the Alpena, as far as can be learned: W. S. Benham, Ft. Herald and wife, M. Crossman, Mrs. B. F. Curtis and Capt. H. V. Squeer, of Grand Haven; Mrs. Bradley and two daughters, of Santa Fe, N. M.; Mrs. S. B. Cole, of Ill., sister of F. H. Horbrook, Muskegon agent of the Goodrich Line; H. T. Locke, agent Hill Bros., New York; Rev. Farrell Hars and wife White Pigeon, Mich.; Mr. Rider, agent of the glass-works, Syracuse, N. Y.; J. Bowen, ex-steward of the Alpena; John Osborn, wife and three children, Chicago; Maggie Mack, ex Stewardess Alpena; N. A. McGilvray, St. Joseph, Mich. A man with three children named not known; C. Kusterer, Fred. Sparth, G. Hollinger, of Grand Rapids; L. Landreth, Muskegon. The following are supposed to have been on the Alpena: L. N. Peyton, New York; Harry L. St. Clair, Chicago; W. C. Pettibone, Chicago; a Jew by the name of Bob Linsky, scrap iron buyer of Chicago.

The Trader.

CHICAGO, October 19.—The steam-barge Trader, which plies between Chicago and Muskegon, and does lumber business, and which, according to the advices and reports of the officers of schooners who have seen her wrecked, has been lost and gone to pieces on the east shore of Lake Michigan, was captained by Frank Brown, and manned by a crew of ten. She measured 150 tons and was classed B 2, and was valued at $6,000. All hands have probably perished.

Relics of the Wreck.

HOLLAND, MICH., October 19.—A man just in from Venturia, eight miles north, says during the night a bucket, two life preservers and a cabin door, all marked Alpena, came ashore there.

CHIEF JUSTICE RYAN.

Death of the Judge of the Wisconsin Supreme Court.

MILWAUKEE, October 19.—Edward G. Ryan, Chief Justice of the Wisconsin Supreme Court, died at his home in Madison this morning, in his seventieth year. Judge Ryan was born at Newcastle House, County Meath, Ireland, November 13, 1810. He was educated at Clingones Woods College and came to this country in 1830. He was admitted to the bar in New York in 1836, and came West the same year. He was Prosecuting Attorney for the Chicago Circuit in 1840, and was a member of the first Constitutional Convention of Wisconsin in 1840 and was appointed Chief Justice of the Wisconsin Supreme Court in 1874. Justice Ryan had a wide acquaintance and a national reputation for his oratorical powers and judicial decisions.

Protestant Episcopal Conference.

NEW YORK, October 19.—In the house of deputies of the Protestant Episcopal General Convention to-day, the report of the committee on new dioceses, changing the transactions of the dioceses of Wisconsin and Fond du Lac, was adopted.

Rev. Dr. Shattucks of the Committee on Expenses, presented a report showing that the expenses of the convention the last three years amounted to $11,412, and estimated expenses for the next three years $9,600. The report estimated assessments at three dollars on each clergyman, which will probably pay all expenses incurred. Should other expenses arise the report suggests one dollar additional be collected.

Will Not Visit Vermont.

MONTPELIER, VT., November 19.—Gen. Grant will not visit Vermont at present.

GARFIELD'S GAB.

The Taffy He Gave to the Visiting Indianians.

A Speech About the Revolution and Abraham Lincoln—The Republican Love Feast.

MENTOR, O., October 19.—About 400 of the Lincoln Club, of Indianapolis, came to Mentor this morning by a special train to pay their respects to Gen. Garfield. All wore linen dusters and three cornered straw hats as a burlesque on the rich costumes of the Jefferson Club of their city. Coming up the farm lane from the railroad, led by a band, they made a novel appearance. Arriving at the house General Garfield appeared, and the club chairman, M. G. McLain, made a brief address in which he eulogized the Republican party and its candidates. He said the club came to bring good news from Indiana and give assurance of a greater victory under the inspiration of Gen. James A. Garfield's leadership. Gen. Garfield responded as follows: "Gentlemen—You have come as bearers of dispatches, so your chairman tells me, and I am glad to hear the news you bring and exceedingly glad to see the bringers of the news. Your uniform, the name of your club, the place from which you come, are full of suggestions. You recollect the verses that were often quoted about the old Continental soldiers. The old three-cornered hat and the breeches and all that were so queer. Your costume brings back to our memory the days of the Continentals of 1776 whose principles you represent. You are called the Lincoln Club, and Lincoln was himself a revival, a restoration of the days of '76 and their doctrines. The great Proclamation of Emancipation which he penned, was the second Declaration of Independence, broader, fuller—the New Testament of human liberty. And then you come from Indiana, supposed to be a Western State, thus yet in its traditions older than Ohio. More than one hundred years ago a gallant Virginian went far up into your wilderness, captured two or three forts, took down the British flag and reared the stars and stripes. Vincennes and Cahokia and a post on Illinois were a part of that capture. Your native State was one of the first fruits of that splendid fighting power which gave the whole West to the United States. And now these representatives of Indiana come representing the revolution in your hats; representing Abraham Lincoln in your badges and representing the victory both of the revolution and Lincoln in the news you bring. I could not be an American and fail to welcome your costumes, your badges, your news, and yourselves. Many Indiana men were my comrades in the days of the war. I remember a regiment of them that was under my command near Corinth. When it seemed necessary for the defense of our forces to cut down a little piece of timber—seventy-five acres, we unboxed from my brigade about 4,000 new axes, and the Fifty-first Regiment of Indiana Volunteers hopped down more trees in half a day than I supposed it was possible could fall in any forest in a week. It appears that in the great political forest from which you have just come your axes have been busy again. I especially welcome the axmen of the Fifty-first Regiment who may happen to be here, and thank you all, gentlemen, for the compliment of your visit and the good news you bring. I don't prize that news half so much for its personal relations to you and to me as I do because it is a revival of the spirit of 76, the spirit of Abraham Lincoln, the spirit of universal liberty and the spirit of just and equal law all over this land, that gives your news its great significance. Gentlemen, I thank you again, and shall be glad to take you by the hand."

After being introduced to Gen. Garfield and family, the party, with three cheers and a salute from their cannon, took the train for Cleveland, where they spend the afternoon. On arriving in Cleveland at one o'clock the Indianians were met at the depot by a large delegation of Cleveland Republicans headed by a band and escorted up town, the visitors continually shouting "Porter" "Porter." The businesss houses of the Republicans on the route of the march were liberally decorated with flags and drapery. At the head of the column a detail of men bore an arch bearing the inscription, "Ohio and Indiana." The Lincoln Club carried horizontally a piece of cloth with a portrait of English. The procession marched to the armory, where speeches were made by representatives of both cities. Preparations were made for a huge torch-light procession to-night.

A Tramp's Revenge.

READING, PA., October 19.—This morning a tramp who was refused shelter at a farm in this vicinity, set fire to the barn. It was destroyed, together with its contents. Three mules and all the cattle perished. The dwelling was considerably damaged. Loss $10,000. The citizens are in pursuit of the incendiary.

Rhode Island Greenbackers.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 19.—The Greenback State Convention met to-day. J. H. Ross presided. Presidential electors were nominated as follows: Sam'l Hill, B. O. Rhodes, Benjamin M. Bosworth and C. J. Westcott. Henry C. Cram was nominated for Congress.

Gold.

NEW YORK, October 19.—Steamship St. Laurent brought $217,600 gold.

A Change at the Custom-House.

Mr. Henry P. Wyman, who for the last fourteen or fifteen years has filled the responsible office of Special Deputy Collector of the port, has resigned his place to accept a position with the Simmons Hardware Company. Mr. Wyman has held office through the consecutive official terms of Surveyors Breckinridge, Coste, Fox, Long, and St. Gem, and by his intimate knowledge of the customs laws and regulations, his executive ability, and generally acceptable service to the business public, has won an enviable and wide spread reputation. The good wishes of the importers and business men generally will follow him to his new location on the 1st prox.

DIAMONDS at fifty cents on the dollar at auction at Cooper's every night, 405 North Fourth street.

Los Pinos Agents.

James C. Coombs and Charles O'Brien, both connected with the Indian Agency at Los Pinos, Colorado, just now the scene of exciting troubles with the Utes, on account of the escape of the murderer of young Johnson, the freighter, are in the city and guests of the Lindell. They left Los Pinos four days ago, before the trouble was serious, but knowing the temper of their people and the Indians, they are afraid that a massacre will be the outcome of the present complications.

Will Probated.

The will of George Hechtel, who died two days ago, was probated to-day. The testament bequeathed a piece of property on Arsenal street, near King's Highway, and certificate No. 3318 of membership in the Grand Lodge of United Workingmen of Missouri, to his mother-in law, Mrs. Dorothea Bagus, to be held in trust for the benefit of his two children. Mrs. Bagus is made executrix.

LOVE IN LIFE WAS ALL I HAD.

The linnet on his leafy bough
  Sang, oh, so clear and sweet!
When Love my comrade was, but now
  That love is gone on winged feet,
  No more to give my heart good morrow,
What can I with the linnet's song
But sadly sit and listen long.
  And think it full of sorrow?

The throstle at the opening day
  Sang, oh, so sweet and clear!
In love's delightful month of May;
  But now that love lies cold and drear,
  What can my heart but sadness borrow?
What can I with the warbling note
The throstle pipes from his sweet throat
  But think it full of sorrow?

For Love in life was all I had,
  Love, oh, so fresh and sweet!
To make my lonely bosom glad;
  But now, ah, never more to meet
  His sunny smile and dear good-morrow,
What can I with this life of mine
But muse upon its woes and pine,
  And think it naught but sorrow?

MAKING HOME ATTRACTIVE.

Mrs. Higginbottom's Successful Effort to Reclaim Her Husband.

From the New York Times.

Mr. Higginbottom deeply bewailed his fondness for rum and concert saloons, but he appealed to all unprejudiced men to concede that he was really blameless. "If my home was only made attractive to me, gentlemen," he was in the habit of saying to the members of a leading temperance society who periodically called on him to urge him to reform, "I would gladly spend all my evenings at home, but as it is I am literally driven to seek comfort elsewhere, though I am a man eminently fitted to enjoy the pleasures of home life." So struck were several temperance men with the force of Mr. Higginbottom's remarks that not long ago they called on his wife and begged her to make an effort to save her unhappy husband by making home attractive.

Mrs. Higginbottom consented to make the desired effort and, as a first step, visited her husband's favorite concert saloon under the protection of a disguise and a detective officer. When she had learned what were the attractions which most powerfully appealed to Mr. Higginbottom's mind she proceeded to reproduce them as far as practicable in her own house. She had the parlor carpet taken up and the bare floor nicely sprinkled with beer and the stumps of cigars. She removed the pictures from the walls and hung in their places cheap and gaudy chromos representing impossible young women in undesirable costumes. Two dirty wooden tables and a supply of wooden chairs from the kitchen completed the furniture of the room and it began to assume a really attractive appearance.

Before the hour of her husband's return from his business Mrs. Higginbottom hired a man to play on an accordeon and another to torture a violin, besides three professional drunkards of great indecency of appearance and conduct, and a notorious burglar, kindly furnished for the occasion by the police captain of the precinct. There were in the kitchen two Irish girls, who were decidedly ugly, but who were clean, decent and modest girls. These two she instructed in the art of serving beer and spirits, and dressed them in costumes that were extremely vulgar, though they could not be said to be improper. Having thus arranged all things, she met her husband at the door and escorted him to the dining-room, where he ate his dinner, unconscious of the transformation that had been wrought in his front parlor.

After dinner Mr. Higginbottom lit his cigar and remarked that he must go out for an hour or two to see a friend. His wife, with a sweet smile, told him that he need not go out, for she had finally discovered how to make home attractive to him. So saying, she showed him into the parlor and led him to a seat at one of the dirty tables. The fiddler and the accordeon player immediately struck up; the drunkards, at a sign from Mrs. Higginbottom, began to swear and wrangle, and the burglar sidled up to Mr. Higginbottom and invited him to take a drink. The two Irish girls brought beer and spilled it on Mr. Higginbottom's table; they called him "Dear" and asked him to "open a bottle of wine," and Mrs. Higginbottom, apologizing for the fact that they were undeniably decent girls, assured her husband that, nevertheless, she was confident that she had finally learned how to make home attractive; that she hoped to spend many jolly evenings with him and would like a hot whisky without any further delay.

Mr. Higginbottom was at first completely dazed, but in a few moments he recovered his reason. He ordered the girls to go into the kitchen and stay there, and he pitched the drunkards out of the front door and ordered the musicians and the burglar to follow them. Then he informed his wife that he had been an idiot of the largest size, and that if she would restore the parlor to its former condition he would stay at home and make no further complaint of its want of attractiveness.

Another "Missing Link."

From the St. James' Gazette.

Professor Owen's researches among the South African fossils have just brought to light another of those curious connecting links between widely different classes of animals which the theory of evolution has led us to expect, and which the diligence of fossil-hunters has now made familiar. Already we have grown accustomed to hear of birds with lizard-like tails or with teeth in their jaws, of saurians with wings, and of horses with three toes. But Professor Owen's new species is one of still deeper interest, because it helps us to bridge over the gap between the mammals and the cold-blooded vertebrates. One by one the gulfs which separated fish, amphibian, reptile and bird have been filled up; and now the last of them between reptile and mammal seems in a fair way to be filled up in its turn by these South African remains. The fossil bones in question are those of an extinct reptile which in some points of its skeleton offers an analogy to the ornithorhynchus, or duck-mole of Australia—the creature familiarly known as "the beast with a bill." The duck-mole probably possesses more aliases than any other living animal; but its recognized scientific title has been finally settled as platypus; and Professor Owen has accordingly bestowed upon the South African form the formidable name of platypodosaurus, which sums up its main characteristics in a nutshell. It is, in fact, a lizard-like reptile with a tendency toward certain low types of mammalian structure.

To estimate the real value of the newly discovered creature, and the light which it casts upon the history of evolution, we must remember what are the peculiarities of the living duck-mole itself. It is, indeed, with its first cousin, the echidna, one of those remarkable surviving types which occasionally enable us, even in our living world, to span the apparent gulf between highly differentiated organic classes. A mammal only by courtesy, the duck-mole may be roughly described as a fur-covered animal which lays eggs. It is thus already not very far removed in the most important particular from the reptiles; while, on the other hand, it clearly leads us on to pouched animals, like kangaroos, which bring forth their young alive, it is true, but still in a condition scarcely differing from that of a chick in the egg.

While there are still considerable gaps to be filled in the series at certain points, we may nevertheless say that the pedigree of the mammalia from the reptiles is now pretty surely made out. Among living or extinct forms we have, first, the primitive reptile; then a reptile with nascent mammalian tendencies; next, a still more mammalian but ovoviviparous form; then, again, a group of pouched mammals; then a few closely allied but pouchless mammals; and then the various lines of descent culminating in our highest existing creatures. And the geological succession of all these forms is exactly what, on the theory of evolution, one would expect to find it.

Primitive Ober-Ammergau.

From the Boston Herald.

A correspondent who has resided five weeks in the Ober-Ammergauer village speaks in high praise of the sanitary and clean arrangements of the inhabitants. More visitors arrived every Saturday than could possibly be accommodated with beds, but the villagers gave up their own beds and slept in haylofts or cow-stalls. He describes the cleansing business that goes on from Tuesday to Friday every week, and says he has never been annoyed by close rooms or impure air. He says it is shocking to think of the conduct he has witnessed of ladies and gentlemen forcing their way into the houses of the Ober-Ammergauers and abusing the owners because they could not accommodate them with board and lodging. The Ober-Ammergauers do not court the patronage of tourists, but if the latter wish to see their Passion Play and are content with the simple yet good fare offered to them, they are pleased enough to see them, not for the love of gain, but because they feel it an honor that their Passion Play should attract so many strangers. Their kindness, courtesy and utter unworldiness are unequalled. Kings, queens, princes, etc., who occupy the same rooms and eat the same fare (and with three pronged forks!) as the villagers themselves, set an example of contentment and gratitude for the benefits received, and those who entertain them are as simple and unaffected as they can be. The proceeds, if sufficiently large this year, are to be dedicated to the building of a hospital or some other charitable work. The players themselves have very small remuneration for the wonderful parts they perform and the lessons they teach.

SHARON SUED.

What the Widow of Ralston Would Like to Have.

From the San Francisco Alta, 9th.

One of the most voluminous complaints and one of the largest in the amounts and interests involved ever filed in the city courts was filed with the Clerk of the Superior Court yesterday, and was entitled "Lizzie F. Ralston, plaintiff, against William Sharon and Alexander D. Sharon, defendants." The suit is brought for an accounting, and alleges that, on or about the 1st of January, 1867, William C. Ralston, then of the city and county of San Francisco, but now deceased, and defendant, William Sharon, entered into partnership, under the firm name of William Sharon & Co., for the purpose of carrying on business in buying and selling, working and developing mines, and in organizing corporations, and in buying and selling shares of stock of corporations, and erecting and maintaining mills in California and Nevada for the crushing and reduction of mineral-bearing ore, and buying and selling shares of stock of the Bank of California, insurance stock, the equipping and operating of railroads and steamboats, the carrying on of manufacturing business and commercial pursuits, acquiring real estate, the erection of hotels and other buildings, the supplying of water to the inhabitants of Virginia City, on joint account and equal division of profits. Plaintiff is unable to state the amount said Ralston and Sharon contributed to form a capital stock to start with, but avers that on December 31, 1868, there was due Ralston from said firm $228,103 20 for advances made on account of the firm. Property of various kinds and of a considerable value was amassed, and Ralston and Sharon continued to carry on business together from January 1, 1867, until August 27, 1875, when the partnership was dissolved by the accidental and sudden death of Ralston. The complaint, which consists of 265 pages, proceeds to set forth numerous large items, amounting to several millions of dollars, wherein the defendants are indebted to plaintiff, and to trace and follow the several convevances and legal transfers of the property claimed to be at issue. Plaintiff petitions the court that an account be taken of the real estate and effects of the deceased in the hands of William Sharon or any other person; of the business of William Sharon & Co.; of all profits and uses made of stocks since August 27, 1871; of all sums of money realized from pledges of stocks, bonds, etc., and the uses and purposes thereof; that Sharon be disallowed interest on money advanced by him on account of his fraudulent acts; an account of the frauds perpetrated by him in obtaining an assignment from plaintiff; an account of the sale of personal property and dividends received; that the release signed by plaintiff's attorneys on October 6, 1876, be decreed a fraud; that A. D. Sharon holds certain real estate in trust for plaintiff; that plaintiff is the beneficiary of the trust executed by W. C. Ralston to William Sharon; that Sharon deliver to plaintiff one-half of certain water and gas stocks; that Sharon pay into court what money he has belonging to Sharon & Co.; that he set forth a schedule of all books, papers, writings or secret ciphers, with key thereto, relating to the matters aforesaid, and to deposit the same in court, and that he may account for such as are not in his possession.

The Terrible Octopus.

From the London Telegraph.

The ferocity of the octopus is undeniable; but doubt has hitherto been cast on the old stories which represent this unpleasant creature as being in the habit of seizing and swamping boats. It is admitted by scientific naturalists that the hideous thing, known to the ancient world as the polypus, and to modern boatmen as the cuttlefish or squid, attains to a portentous size and strength in the warmer seas, and is very powerful and even dangerous. Its voracity and the peculiar violence with which it attacks and rends its prey are well known to those persons who have seen it, weakened by captivity, and rendered less eagerly ravenous by the abundance of food ready to its thousand hands. To speak by the card, these number 960 in all, and are rather to be called fingers than hands. But what fingers! Each is a powerful sucker that expands and contracts with rapid and ever-changeful motion, and there are one hundred and twenty of them to each of the eight long, writhing, restless arms. With eyes fixed on its adversary, and with parrot-like beak advanced for the encounter, this most unsightly of all living things inspires awe by its loathliness not less than by its actual power to harm. That it will turn and fasten upon a human being, if angered or menaced with capture, is a well established fact; and a recent occurrence reported from Adelaide goes far to revive the old story that a polypus will venture on attacking the hull of a boat. A telegram from Port Elliot, published in the South Astralian papers, states that on the 20th of August last "Trooper Bruce and a man named Edward were out in the bay near Lipson's Island, examining a piece of wreckage, when their boat was encircled by the tentacles of a large octopus and pulled over till it was nearly half full of water, and in great danger of being swamped. The occupants escaped with the utmost difficulty.

Killed by Ill Tidings.

From the New York Herald.

Two weeks ago Adrien Cauzac, a Frenchman, applied at the Mercer street station house for shelter for himself, his wife and three children, who, he claimed, were utterly destitute. The request was granted, and Roundsman Dougherty interested himself in Cauzac's behalf. A collection was made among the members of the police force of the district and sufficient funds were raised to procure food for the starving family. Cauzac was a pastry cook, and employment was subsequently procured for him in a Broadway restaurant. Things passed pleasantly with the poor Frenchman until about three days ago, when a police officer's wife wrongly informed Mrs. Cauzac that the police were going to get her husband from his place at the restaurant. When Cauzac returned from work he was told what the police officer's wife had said. The news was too much for the cook, for he staggered and fell unconscious to the floor. An ambulance was procured and Cauzac was removed to the New York hospital, where he expired yesterday. A post mortem examination showed that the man's death had resulted from apoplexy, which the surgeons suppose was produced by mental excitement.

Jim Keene's Race Losses.

London Cor. New York World.

Your townsman, Mr. James R. Keene, won another small race this week at Newmarket, but his racing stud here is costing him about ten times more than it is worth, and there is very little in it that is really worth having. He has made entries for the Derby, but will have to send over some horses of better quality if he intends trying for it seriously.

THE DESOLATE CROZETS.

Interesting Facts About Those Little-Known Isles in the Southern Seas.

From the New York World.

The English Admiralty have issued a report of the recent visit of H. M. S. Comus to the Crozet Islands for the purpose of relieving shipwrecked crews and of surveying this hitherto little known group in the South Indian Ocean. The Comus, under the command of Capt. J. East, R. N., arrived at the group on March 3 last and found them to consist of six islands. A landing was first effected on Hog Island. The summit of this island is always covered with snow. It is 2,000 feet high and has a number of small peaks, the western side being precipitous and the eastern side sloping down to the sea. Landing is difficult at most times and can only be effected from the northeast point of the island. Careful observation of the position of the island placed it thirteen miles northwest of the position given originally on the authority of Lieutenant Fournier, of the French Navy, in 1838, viz., in latitude 46 deg. 6 min. 10 sec. S., longitude 50 deg. 16 min, 5 sec. E. About half a mile north of the landing place mentioned the Comus anchored in twelve fathoms of water and found good holding ground, the anchorage, moreover, being said to be a safe one in all prevailing winds. Provisions for the use of shipwrecked persons were landed and a depot was formed in a cove. Hog Island is reported to be swarming with sea elephants, seals, rabbits, ducks, teal, albatross, penguin and other birds. To shipwrecked people the skin of the sea elephant would form a good covering, and the tongues, fins and kidneys of these enormous animals are excellent food. Fresh water is abundant. Hog Island is seldom visited; there were no signs of any people having been there since the pilot of the Comus, a man named Benjamin Miller, left the place ten years before. Apostles Islands are two in number, with several outlying pinnacle rocks. The northeast island is the largest and is about 850 feet high in its northeast point. There are one or two spots where landing can be effected with difficulty when the water is smooth. It was on these islands that the wreck of the Strathmore took place on the 1st of July, 1857, when the survivors of the passengers and crew, forty-four in number, landed on the northeast island and remained, enduring privations, until the 21st of January, 1877, when they were rescued by an American whaler. All the Strathmore's boats were lost after the landing on the island had been made, and the unhappy survivors of the wreck were consequently unable to leave their prison and take advantage of the more extedded resources of the neighboring islands. At the time of the visit of the Comus the cairn built by the Strathmore's survivors was plainly visible.

Penguin Island is about twenty-two miles south by west of Hog Island. It is about 1,000 feet high, has a barren and volcanic appearance and is quite inaccessible. There is a rock about 250 feet high off the northeast point, appearing as though it had been cut off the Island.

Possession Island, another of the group, is a more hospitable refuge in case of shipwreck. There are good anchorages and an apparently easy landing. A depot of provisions was formed for the use of shipwrecked persons, being placed in shelter huts in the southeast corner of American Bay, about 100 yards from the shore. The remains of several huts used by whalers were found in American Bay, but these fisheries have been abandoned, and no one had apparently landed during a period of some years. The beaches swarmed with sea elephants, a few ducks were shot and guinea fowl were seen.

East Island is about 4,000 feet high and always covered with snow. The shores are steep, and numerous waterfalls (some of considerable volume) fall over the cliffs into the sea. Ruined whalers' huts were visible on this island.

In concluding this report Capt. East recommends that in the event of shipwreck in the vicinity of these islands the boats should immediately make either for the east sides of Hog or Possession Island or for the north side of East Island, where they may find landing and plenty of food.

Killed by Corned Beef.

From the London News.

Yesterday, the 4th of October, Mr. George Collier, the Deputy Coroner for East Middlesex, held an inquiry at the Wades Arms, Jeremiah street, Poplar, relative to the death of Jane Gibson, aged ten years, which arose under the following circumstances: Mary Ann Gibson, residing at No. 27 Manilla street, Millwall, wife of a fireman, stated that the deceased was her daughter. On Friday last she sent the deceased and an elder sister to a shop for a quarter of a pound of corned beef, which they procured. Witness, her husband and three of their children partook of the corned beef, and on the following day deceased complained of pains in her head and chest, which she attributed to the meat. All the family were affected by the beef, but the deceased became worse and expired on Sunday morning last. In answer to questions put by the jury, the witness said that she and her family had frequently partaken of the corned beef without experiencing any ill effects. Georgina Gibson, daughter of the last witness, said she accompanied the deceased to buy the corned beef. A conical shaped tin containing a portion of the meat was produced, and the witness recognized it as the same from which the portion was taken. Witness, in the course of examination, said that they were all sick after eating the meat. Dr. John Wilson Moore, of West Ferry Road, stated that he found deceased laboring under all the symptoms of an irritant poison. She died in about half an hour after his visit. He had made a post mortem examination. The brain was very much congested and the stomach was much inflamed. The cause of death, in his opinion, was due to some irritant poison. He had examined the tin containing the "corned beef" in question, and come to the conclusion that a portion of the tin had got absorbed by the meat, and that a dead substance, known as hydro-chloride of zinc, was thus caused. It was supposed that in soldering the tins containing the meat, which was imported from America, spirits of salt were used. The Coroner, in summing up, said that, lamentable as was the case, no blame could be attached to the vender of the corned beef, which was conveyed to him, according to the brand, from America. The jury returned a verdict of "Death by misadventure."

Horse-Meat as Food.

From the Parisian.

Some very interesting statistics have been published by the society for promoting the use of horse-flesh and the flesh of asses and mules as food, showing how steadily the consumption of these articles of diet has been increasing in Paris and the Provinces since the foundation of the society in 1866. The weight has increased from 171,300 pounds in 1866, to 1,982,620 pounds in 1879. In the principal cities of the Provinces the consumption of horse-flesh may be considered to have fairly taken root. At Marseilles, in 1870, there were 599 horses eaten; 1,031 in 1875, and 1,533 in 1878. At Nancy, 155 in 1873, over 350 in 1876, and 705 in 1878. At Rheims 291 in 1874, 423 in 1876, and 384 in 1878. At Lyons 1,839 in 1873, and 1,313 in 1875. In both the latter cases some difficulties had been thrown in the way by the town authorities, as was the case recently at Chalons-sur-Marne, where the Mayor fixed the price of the horse-flesh at a higher rate than that of beef. The average price of horse-meat is from twenty-five to thirty cents per pound. Each horse furnishes about 200 kilogrammes (400 weight) of meat, which is capable of being prepared in many by no means unappetizing ways, such as pot-au-feu, boiled, roast, hashed, haricot, jugged, filet, etc.

Emigration from Germany.

Berlin Dispatch to the London Times.

Formulas and instructions have been issued to all the German Governments and Supreme Presidents for the uniform taking of the census on the 1st of December next. The result will probably be surprising. Emigration from the Fatherland is going on apace. In the month of September of this year alone 6,622 persons were registered as having passed out of the Empire (toward America, most of them), as against 2,162 in the same month of the preceding year. Further, while the number of emigrants who sought the West through the same port in the first three-quarters of 1879 amounted to only 19,623, the figures for the same period of the present year amount to thrice that number. To explain the cause of this enormous increase does not, it is true, fall within the functions of the Statistical Bureau, but the subject, one would think, is well worthy the consideration of the Government. The State can well afford to part company entirely with such men as Herr Hasselmann, the Socialist member of Parliament, who is visiting the United States just now for the purpose of gathering material to support ulterior political agitation here, but it would surely do well to devise some means of stemming this ever-deepening tide of industrial emigration, which in the eyes of Prince Bismarck must seem as detrimental to the interests of the nation as free trade, and which must to a great extent neutralize the blessings supposed to spring from protection.

TUG OF WAR.

A New Fashionable Game for Idle New Yorkers.

From the New York World.

The chief amusement for the Saturday afternoon visitors at the Polo Grounds—and each week the number of visitors is increasing—was yesterday furnished by two dozen sailors, picked in crews of four from half a dozen of the ocean steamers now in port, who, stimulated by a prize of $40 held out to the successful four, threw their burly forms prone upon the loose dirt in a series of as desperate "tugs-of-war" as has recently been seen in this or any other arena. For the benefit of those who are not "up" in such matters it may be said that the nature of a "tug-of-war" is very imperfectly indicated by its name. The attitude assumed by the participants, which is in appearance, though not in truth, one of extreme indolence, together with the fact that the rival tuggers are separated by many feet of strong rope, deprives the contest of all belligerent aspects, and not infrequently gives the ignorant spectator an impression that the contestants have gone to sleep. Such rather is the "tug-of-war" as ordinarily exhibited, it being a commonly-adopted practice among expert tuggers to lie in the dirt with serene smiles upon their features and no other outward manifestations of life. The ocean steamship seamen proved to be lamentably ignorant of the first principles of the game. Four sturdy mariners with legs like butter-tubs, bearing the word "Inman" across the fronts of their blue shirts, caught hold of one end of the rope and the same number of yellow haired seamen from a ship of the North German Lloyd's line took a grip upon the other end. Mr. Jasper Goodwin, who had been chosen referee, fired a pistol. The Inman crew immediately began to twist a ship's anchor with a merry "Yo, heave yo," while the North German Lloyd's seamen proceeded to lay upon a hawser. The sand under their feet flew about in clouds and the perspiration rolled from their faces. Presently, from force of habit, both crews seemed to arrive simultaneously at the conclusion that the rope had slipped a roller and kinked in the block. In the most natural way in the world the boatswain of the Inman cried out to the North German Lloyd's crew, "Slack her a little," and in the most natural way in the world the North German Lloyd's crew obeyed the order. A roar from the delighted spectators recalled the North German Lloyd's crew to a sense of the business in which they were engaged, but the Inman crew had promptly taken in the slack and the others in the ten minutes allowed for the tug were unable to recover it. Crews from the White Star steamer Britannic and the Cunard steamer Bothnia next took opposite ends of the rope. In ten minutes the Cunard crew had jerked their rivals over rather more than six feet of ground, and would doubtless have hoisted them to the masthead had the referee not called "time." The third tug was between sailors of the National and Guion lines, and was declared a draw. Then the Inmans met the Cunards, and although the boatswain of the former crew cried out several times to the others to "light her up," the Cunards refused to obey orders, and having two feet the best of the pull, were declared champions and given $10 a piece.

Other tugs, open to members of any amateur athletic club in good standing, followed and were finished by candle-light. The Entre Nous team having departed, the Parks and Centrals were awarded the prize.

The Dog Market.

From a Boston Letter.

The fashion here changes as in everything else. It appears there has been a decrease in black-and-tan and the Spitz has become almost extinct. There has been no breeding of the Spitz to speak of, and many persons who owned them have been frightened out of keeping them. The Yorkshire terrier stands first nowadays and brings from $50 to $100. The Yorkshire terrier is a different breed from the Skye and is known by its blue color and tan head. It should not be over twelve pounds weight. The toy terrier, which sells for from $35 to $100, is a great favorite with the ladies. This is a variety of the Yorkshire and should weigh under five pounds. The King Charles are coming in again and fetch from $75 to $250. The pugs still remain fashionable. They are called English pugs, but they are German. The English mastiff is a good watch dog, is docile, intelligent, and the grandest dog there is, for a large one. The pups bring from $30 to $100; a grown dog is hard to get. Newfoundlands you can get from $10 to $25. The St. Bernards are scarce, and are worth $25 to $150. Setters and pointers fetch $15 to $1,500. The Irish setter Berkeley was sold by John Fottler to a Mr. Moore of Philadelphia for $1,400. Like many dog experts this gentleman does not believe there is such a thing as hydropobhia. Not a case has ever been brought to his notice. Sixteen dogs had bitten him in one week, some of them pretty severely, and he had experienced no bad effects. The same with the boys in his employ; they had all been badly bitten, but he had seen nothing like hydrophobia. The bite of a dog with foul teeth would, no doubt, disease the dog or man bitten; but hydrophobia—nothing in it. He cited several instances where he had cured supposedly mad dogs.

AROUND THE YEAR.

Love came to me in the Spring-time,
  With the soft, sweet April showers;
Her breath was the breath of the woodland,
  And her lap was filled with flowers.

Her step was a song in the silence;
  Its melody rose and fell
As she danced through the fragrant twilight
  To the bower we knew so well.

And the Spring glided on to the Summer
  With the flame of its fervent darts,
And the noon of the fleeting season
  Was the noon of our beating hearts.

But the Autumn came with its shadows,
  And the noon was no longer hot;
And the frost crept into our pulses,
  And Summer and Spring were not.

And Love was alive with the winter,
  But her beauty and grace had fled;
'Mid the snows of March I left her,
  With a cypress wreath at her head.

BERNHARDT AGAIN.

The Dramatic Skeleton as Seen at Her Home.

Paris Cor. of the New York Patriot.

The actress, looking something like a thirteen-year-old boy in her flannel suit, skips around the bust, blowing water upon it from a nondescript machine like a bellows; then she installs us in a corner rich with warmly-colored carpets, brazen plates and bits of tapestry, and the business of the interview is speedily transacted. She speaks of her pictures which she will take to America with her; and I can not help drawing a picture in my mind of her New York studio and the visitors to it and the impression that she will create when she goes like a flash of light from one corner to another, or when she stands talking with both hands thrust into the pockets of her flannel jacket, and with the sunshine playing hide and seek in her yellowish hair.

One thing which is vastly to her credit is to be observed: she betrays no stage taint in her speech; none of the idiotic slang in which some French actresses like to indulge disfigures her lips; her words are those of a lady, and her enunciation is so beautifully distinct that, even when she talks with great animation, every syllable is easily heard. Her days are filled with hard work, even when she is not acting. She paints and models in clay with as much energy as if she won her bread by those arts. She is at her toil long before 9 in the morning, and manages to see dozens of people daily. When the hour of 7 arrives her dinner is served, and there is always a numerous company. The actress flies among them, kissing one, scolding another, talking seriously with yet another, and giving, every minute or two, half a dozen orders to the patient-faced, elderly woman who attends to her innumerable commissions. The outer door is guarded by two servants who are always sure that "Madame is not at home," unless they are confident that the visitor belongs in the circle of intimate acquaintance, or comes on business.

The studio has been often enough described. It is a cheerful place, rich in color, with tropical plants and large pictures and busts and potteries, and luxurious chairs and cushions on every hand. Over the fireplace hangs the great painting of Sarah herself, sitting on a sofa in a corner with yards of white robe trailing about her feet. In one nook is a very cleverly executed portrait bust of Emile de Girardin; here is a screen, there a radiant group of draperies; on a table a collection of costly presents from admirers; on the right a staircase communicating with the upper regions of the house. Mademoiselle Sarah skips up this flight of steps as nimbly as if she were but sixteen; she is admirably felicitous in gesture, gait and manner, never losing a certain natural dignity, which has a charm. She is modest withal; not disposed to speak of her histrionic triumphs, nor to fish for compliments, as many actresses do. She protests that she knows nothing about business. She had prepared a draft for a certain sum of money, which was to be forwarded to her London solicitor, and a fearful and wonderful document it certainly was! I doubt whether even a lawyer could have made anything of it.

Mademoiselle Bernhardt is sincerely desirous of pleasing the American public, and has made most elaborate preparations for her tour. Thirty of the dresses which she will take over are new, and some of them are magnificent. She regrets very much that she has not had time to try the effect of them before appearing in them in the United States. She is very well pleased with the company which is to assist her, and means to do her best to achieve a great artistic triumph during her campaign of 100 nights.

Some Burlesque Players.

Olive Logan's London Letter.

There are four players in London who are going to make a fortune in America whenever they get the chance to go there together. Divided, they will fall; but united, they are "a team," I assure you. They are Nellie Farren and Kate Vaughan, and Royce and Terry. Their "line of business" is burlesque, and delightful burlesque it is. Nellie Farren is a sort of Lotta, with a difference; not Lotta enfant, but Lotta, a person of the world, up to snuff, too jolly clever by half. Kate Vaughan is one of the most beautiful creatures possible, a photograph shop-window stand-by, and her dancing is a very dream of poetry. Experts say it is a gleam of Taglioni, of Cerito, of Fanny Elsler; certainly it is the very harmony of movement. I went to see these clever creatures in a burlesque on Auber's delightful opera and called "Half-Crown Daimonds, Re-Set." One can not describe fireworks, nor yet the twirl of a lovely leg, the twinkle of a bright eye, the rattling musketry of a succession of bad puns. Occasionally Mr. Reece, who "re-set" these "diamonds," has offended good taste, as in that song of Nellie Farren's, where the bright vocalist is made to say:

When Noah hung out in the ark
It was such a jolly good lark;
If he couldn't get lamb
He could fall back on Ham—
When Noah hung out in the ark.

Terry and Royce are two most amusing actors. The former is en conge just now, playing in the Provinces, but Royce is here. He is a desperately double-dyed villain always, and it is rich to see his terrible dance executed after the lovelorn refrain,

She fancied a snob with a carroty knob,
But she never could fancy me!

A Dog's Extraordinary Lunch.

From the Washington Star.

A mutilated five-dollar note was received at the Treasury to-day from Marion county, Indiana, and redeemed. Accompanying it was the following affidavit: "Before me, John E. Scott, a notary public in and for said county and State, comes Walter Rivers, who, being duly sworn, deposes and says that on or about the 2d day of September, 1880, in the city of Indianapolis, a dog owned by the deponent did feloniously and with malice intent seize a five-dollar bill numbered B 256,460, series 1875 and bank number 40, and after chewing off the right-hand lower corner and the entire left-hand edge of the aforesaid bill, in spite of all due effort on the part of deponent, succeeded in swallowing the same, and no amount of after effort in choking the aforesaid dog availed to recover the torn portion of said bill; and, furthermore, deponent declares the said dog to be duly licensed by the city of Indianapolis under number 187, taxes paid in full to May 1, 1881, and seeks to obtain from the Hon. Treasurer of the United States all proper relief in the shape of a new five-dollar William." The new bill was sent.

Died of Medical Etiquette.

Montreal Dispatch to the Toronto Mail.

A Mr. John Dromey, of the firm of Doherty & Dromey, booksellers, Chaboillez Square, died here on Sunday last, and the conduct of some medical men in connection with his illness is considered very singular. Dr. Reid was first called on to attend the patient, and he prescribed for him. Mr. Dromey getting worse, Dr. Cameron was subsequently sent for, and he ordered some medicine. On Dr. Reid returning and finding Dr. Cameron had been there, he left the house and refused to have anything more to do with the case. Dr. Cameron came a second time and, learning of Dr. Reid's visits, he declined, as a matter of etiquette, to act, the patient in the meantime getting worse. Other medical men, it is stated, were called on, but refused on the same grounds as Dr. Cameron. In the meantime Mr. Dromey grew rapidly worse, and died on Sunday without a medical man seeing him. Application was made to Dr. Cameron since the death for a burial certificate, but he refused to give it, stating that he had not attended the deceased. Dr. Reid refused at first to give the certificate, but subsequently granted it.

A MARYLAND TRAGEDY.

The Picket Family Disturbed—A Spartan Mother.

Baltimore Cor. Chicago Times.

A special from New Windsor, Md., says Milton Picket, aged 53, living in Carroll county, was shot on Tuesday morning last by Luther Picket, of the same neighborhood, and died on Thursday night. The Times correspondent yesterday arrived at the scene soon after the verdict of the jury was read, which was as follows:

"Milton Picket came to his death on the evening of October 14 from a ball fired from a revolver held in the hands of Luther Picket on the morning of October 12."

About four years ago Milton Picket, with his wife, Martha E., his daughter, about 17 years of age, and a young son, moved to the place. A short time after this Luther Picket, second cousin to the girl Martha, moved into the neighborhood, and took charge of a farm belonging to his widowed mother. He soon commenced paying attention to Martha, which continued for several years. Eventually an engagement of marriage was made between them. This was the beginning of the trouble. Under the promise of marriage he accomplished the girl's ruin. Her condition became known, and she, with her parents, was anxious for the marriage to take place, but young Picket, offering pretext after pretext as a ground of delay, succeeded in postponing the marriage. About two weeks before her confinement he called to see her, and again renewed his promise to marry her at once. He then left her, and Martha never saw him again until the day of the shooting. A child was born on the 12th day of April last. During that interval the father and daughter repeatedly sent word to young Picket to return and fulfill his promise, to which he paid no attention. At last the girl, frenzied with her grief, determined to force matters. Last Tuesday morning, accompanied by her father, she went to a field where Luther was, and met him close to the fence. The girl had a five-barreled Smith & Wesson revolver, and her father had in his pocket an old revolver which had not been discharged for nearly a year. As they met the father said: "Luther, we have come now to see if you will go with us to the house. Will you?" His reply was: "I won't." At once the shooting commenced. After Martha's revolver had been emptied of its contents, fired in all directions, she turned to her father, who had not taken his pistol from his pocket, but who was beating a hasty retreat. During this time, Picket was firing at the retreating man, and as he was scaling the fence, the fatal bullet struck him in the back, about three inches to the right of the spinal column, passing through the abdomen and lodging near the surface, about two and a half inches above the umbilicus. The unfortunate man was conveyed to his home, and medical aid summoned. Dr. Aldridge found the ball, and removed it, but his skill was of no avail. When the Doctor told him he could not live, he said: "Well, Luther shot me. I went with my girl to protect her, but was shot." He said, further, that he never fired at all, and that Luther had fired the first shot. The testimony seems to have established the fact that the shooting was over before the victim reached the fence. This is the girl's story. The general impression among those assembled seems to be that young Picket, who had escaped, would not return. When the Times correspondent entered the room where the dead man lay, the sight was enough to sicken the stoutest heart. Everything betokened poverty and confusion. The room was small, the ceiling low, bed all tumbled in a heap, and the ghastly remains of the murdered man stretched out on a table with no clothing but a pair of blue stockings and a bloody shirt covering his disfigured body, and hiding the evidence of the post mortem. Miss Picket is a pleasant girl, reddish hair, light complexion, regular features, and a bright, expressive eye, with intelligence above her station. She is small and delicate-looking, but always on the alert, so as not to commit herself. When asked whether she only intended to scare or shoot young Picket, she promptly replied: "That's my business." All, however, agree that if she could not succeed in gaining his consent to a speedy marriage, it was her intention to shoot him. The mother of the girl remarked: "If the men will not protect the women, they must protect themselves."

Two Wide-Awake Dukes.

From the London Truth October 7.

It is probably not generally known that the enormous town of Barrow-in-Furness and all the country around belong to the Duke of Devonshire and the Duke of Buccleuch, and that these keen political opponents are practically partners in the property, having seemingly come to an amicable agreement on the subject many years ago. There is no more rising town in England than Barrow; it has come into existence with quite American speed and its trade yearly increases. The two Dukes, some years back, intimated their intention of running a line of steamers between Barrow and America, and the existing companies had to pay them a very large sum to abandon the project, whereupon the vessels were transferred to the Eastern trade, and now form the well-known "Ducal" Line.

Headaches of To-Day.

From the Hoboken (NJ.) Hudson Co. Democrat.

We do not refer here to the able book of this title, but to those peculiar, tantalizing, throbbing pains, which seem to fill the head to the exclusion of everything else; until one feels as if every nerve, bone and muscle were mere pain vibrators and nothing more. Such a headache, continued during a long period, seems to have troubled Mrs. A. Ettanger, Plainfield, N. J. She says: I had suffered for sixteen years with a painful nervous headache. I consulted many physicians, but in vain. Some time ago, I received by chance a Hamburg Family Almanac, read the numerous testimonials in favor of Hamburg Drops, and bought a bottle for trial. The effect was so beneficial that I continued its use. Before many weeks had passed I was cured, and now keep this wonderful remedy constantly on hand.

CONDENSED TELEGRAMS.

Chief Justice Ryan, of Wisconsin, is not expected to live.

Mrs. John Ritchie, wife of Gen. Ritchie, of Topeka, Kansas, died Monday night.

The great cotton fire at Charleston, S. C., has at last been gotten under control.

A late snow storm in Buenos Ayres destroyed 1,500,000 cattle, sheep and horses.

Gov. Cullom speaks at Cairo to night. He says he will carry the State by 25,000 majority.

Secretary Sherman was serenaded at Washington on Monday night, and made the usual speech.

Adjutant-General E. G. Mitchell, of Jefferson City, lost a fourteen-year-old daughter on Monday.

The steamer Granada, which left Chicago Friday night, has been utterly destroyed near Muskegon.

The railroads of Southern Minnesota are blocked with snow. Also those of Northern New York.

Callaway county has put a full Democratic ticket in the field, headed by D. P. Bailey for Representative.

The commander of the Russian Pacific squadron has been ordered to survey the entire coast of Corea.

RIVER NEWS.

CHEROKEE had a fine cargo on leaving Cairo for New Orleans.

THE Centennial leaves New Orleans to-morrow for St. Louis.

THE Red Cloud grounded on Bulletin bar, but got off and left Memphis all right.

THE Northwestern, Capt. Davis, leaves this evening for Keokuk and way landings.

PILOTS in the Cincinnati and New Orleans trade will charge $200 per trip of one month the coming season.

THE fine steamer Annie P. Silver, Capt. D. H. Silver, G. F. Shields clerk, will leave this evening for New Orleans and way landings.

THE reliable and regular Clarksville packet Dora leaves this afternoon, Capt. Alex. Lamont commanding, and Frank Deane in the office.

CAPT. JAS. B. EADS will visit Vicksburg with a view toward improving the harbor, some time between the 20th and 30th of the present month.

JOKE by Com. Millar: Col. P. P. Manion, of St. Louis, is about to contract with Capt. Hambleton, of Mound City, for a sternwheel boat to be completed for the spring trade.

ROLLINGPIN to the Cincinnati Commercial: Captain W. W. Coulson loads the big Wyoming for Memphis and Helena on Wednesday: she loads through Jenkins' agency, independently. Southern freights plenty.

CAPT. T. C. SWEENEY'S new cotton boat is at Pittsburg, and will be taken to Wheeling to receive her machinery. She is 150 feet in length, 34 feet beam, 4 feet hold; 2 steel boilers 20 feet in length, 40 inches in diameter; cylinder 12 1-2 inches in diameter, 4 feet stroke. Hull and cabin built at Brownsville.

THE exports from New York of wheat and corn on Friday were larger than for any previous day in the history of the port. Of wheat there was exported 720,206 bushels, and of corn 420,022, a total of 1,140,228. This is largely due to shippers, who, having made contracts, hastened recently to cover them for fear that prices would advance later in the month.

THE New Orleans Democrat is mistaken. Stanley Ryland reported for the St. Louis Times two weeks. He never was connected with the Republican. A. L. Ryland was on the Republican several years and still lives. A. L. is taking care of his health, as he is very much attached to the visible world. Stanley was born in Missouri, A. L. in Glasgow, Scotland, and were not relations, but warm friends.

PITTSBURG, 17: Boats in port: New steamer W. T. Wheless, Kentucky, Capt. Sweeney's new boat, and towboats Sam. Miller, Onward, J. W. Gould, Ironsides, Iron Duke, Fearless, Harry Brown, Alex. Swift, Reindeer, Baltic, Sam. Clark, Tom Rees No. 2, W. C. Guffey, Smoky City, Grand Lake, Hornet No. 2, Jas. Gilmore, Joe Nixon, Josh. Cook, Evan Williams and Veteran No. 2.

LOUISVILLE C.-J.: As a business community, we depend too much on railroads. Steamboats made St. Louis and Cincinnati what they are, notwithstanding they have plenty of railroads. What we want here is more liberal patronage bestowed upon our steamboats. The closing of the canal makes this city the head and foot of navigation upon the Ohio River. Capt. John P. Keiser, of the Anchor Line, left for St. Louis last night.

THE noble steamer Wyoming, Capt. Wm. W. Coulson, will leave for Memphis, Helena and all way landings, to-morrow evening from her wharf at foot of Morgan street. She is the Big Three Line boat, and will positively leave and with an excellent cargo as to amount and character of shippers. In the office will be found the attractive and gentlemanly Coulson, Clemens and Coulson, and Hunter Ben Jenkins is her agent. The Wyoming has unsurpassed passenger accommodations.

RIVERS above rising: Illinois, Upper Mississippi and Missouri, but this fact won't send Coulson to grass....Good water in the Ohio is an immediate prospect. An enormous basin waits on that stream....Capt. Tom Poe will bring the Baltic and four barges here from the Ohio as soon as possible....Steamers on the upper rivers were all delayed by the storms. Hence several leave to-day instead of leaving yesterday....Colorado and Providence due here at 7 this evening....Going South: Wyoming to-morrow, Shreveport Thursday, Guiding Star Saturday.

CINCINNATI Commercial, 18th: The Chancellor, Springer, Ariadne and Sidney were the only steamers at the City Wharf yesterday....The Charles Morgan, during her retirement, in addition to thorough repairs, has been repainted inside and outside, presenting a beautiful appearance. The Thomas Sherlock has also been thoroughly repaired, while over $7,000 have been expended in rebuilding the Memphis packet Andy Baum. ....Captain J. B. Sullivan, of New Orleans, is here and will superintend the completion of Capt. Jack. W. Blanks' new Ouachita packet, building at Mack's yard.

Mississippi Boatmen of 1847.

William Ralston, the great California capitalist, who died a short time ago, was clerk of the Conroy, Capt. C. K. Garrison, in 1847. In the following year he quit the river, and engaged in business in St. Louis. He failed and lost everything. Anxious to get to California and join his old friend, Capt. Garrison, he went to Mr. Warrick Martin, a broker in St. Louis, who had removed to St. Louis from this city, and with whom he had many dealings during his steamboat days, stated his desire and condition, and asked for the loan of $500, which Mr. Martin let him have. Several years had passed, and Mr. Ralston, then a wealthy citizen of San Francisco, was called upon one day by an old friend from New York. During the conversation the friend mentioned that Mr. Martin, whom he had never heard from since leaving St. Louis, was then residing in New York, in indigent circumstances, having failed in business. Ralston expressed regrets at not having heard sooner from Martin, that he might have relieved his wants. Shortly after this Mr. Martin was called upon by a bank-runner and informed that there was a deposit of $10,000 in the bank subject to his order. He thought it a hoax and would not go to the bank. The next day he was again called upon and told that the president of the bank had a letter relating to the deposit, which he wished him to see. He went and found that it was a letter from William Ralston asking him to accept the $10,000 as a mark of his friendship, and in consideration of his loaning him $500 when he hadn't a cent in the world. The moral of this reminiscence is that help in time of need is sometimes rewarded with gratitude.—[N. O. Dem.

AT last accounts Porter's plurality in Indiana had reached 7,141.

THE telegraph lines in the East are on their bad behavior again to-day.

SHERMAN'S reflections upon Wade Hampton were used in the heat of political controversy and should not have been held to be unparliamentary, we presume.

GARFIELD has pledged himself to take care of Grant, Conkling, Logan, and the odious thieves of the era of American humiliation. His election will mean the Restoration.

TWO weeks from to-day the great Presidential struggle will take place. This is a year for political surprises and we almost shrink from hazarding a prediction. Still, we think the chances are in favor of Hancock.

WE are waiting for a letter from Judge Wickham explaining away the damaging impressions left upon the public mind by those florid Gundaker depositions. The Judge is said to be in the throes of composition.

MAHONE, the debt-repudiating leader in Virginia, has gone to Philadelphia, ostensibly on railroad business, but in reality to arrange with the leaders of the party of Honesty and devotion to the Public Credit to sell his State to Garfield.

THE splendid courage of John Sherman has won the admiration of the editor of the Radical organ in this city. A year ago this same person was busy encouraging the popular belief touching Sherman's heartlessness, rascality and general meanness.

JUDGING from the way in which the fierce Chilians are pouring shot and shell into Callao the efforts of Minister Christiancy to patch up a peace between Chili and Peru were as unprofitable as his labors to secure tranquility in his own domestic circle.

NO section of the country seems to have suffered so much from the recent general storms as the lake region. A number of vessels were wrecked and the loss of the Chicago and Grand Haven steamer "Alpena," with seventy souls, is now as good as confirmed.

A DELEGATION of German Republicans went down from Cleveland to Mentor yesterday to congratulate Hon. 329 Garfield, and he actually spoke German to them. He quoted a bit of Norvalis' poetry and said, "Wilkommen alle." Schurz should have been there.

PROFESSOR WOODWARD, of Washington University, has been selected as the gentleman to be recommended as the Superintendent of the new St. Louis census. It is to be hoped that he will be appointed. His name is a guarantee that the work will be thoroughly and honestly done.

SARDOU'S play of "Daniel Rochat," having been condemned in France, has been produced at the Union Square Theater, New York. The French didn't like its social and political features, but as we know nothing about those delicate points and have really less religion than the French, the infidel Daniel will probably flourish here.

THREATS of suing the Committee of Revision for striking from the registry rolls the names of illegal negro voters must be regarded as a part of the Republican game of bluff. The committee is trying to do its duty in keeping the voting lists on the side of honesty, and the courts are not going to be hard on the boys for any little mistakes that they may make.

THE latest advices from Cape Town are to the effect that Major Carrington has defeated 1,000 Bald Basutos. The Bald Basuto is, we are inclined to believe, a new ethnological find, for on the face of things there is no apparent reason why a Basuto should be any balder than anybody else. Some of them should be imported to worry our Indians with, and any over-supply might be used up by Alice Oates and Rice's Surprise Party for the orchestra chairs.

D. R. RIDDELL, local freight agent of the Michigan Southern Railroad at Chicago, has left town with a shortage in his accounts of $50,000, which are switching fees collected but not paid over. As he was an intensely loyal man, the supposition is that he has gone off to celebrate the great victory achieved by the "business interests" in Indiana last week. There wasn't room for him in Chicago.

THE Republican of this morning complains that we published some matter yesterday which had previously appeared in its columns. We do not see why a good piece of information should be suppressed and hidden from the world simply because it happens to slip down a rat-hole or into the obscure and crypt-like pages of the Republican. The public can never know a thing until it hears of it.

IF a local committee commanding respect and confidence could be secured the stalwart Democratic State of Missouri would send a respectable sum of money to Indiana to be used in converting political heathen. The committee that undertook to raise funds for the October election made a failure because it wouldn't have been trusted to sweep up peanut hulls on a barroom floor, let alone handle money.

IT is claimed by Mr. English's friends that it was Landers and not English who was up for consideration in Indiana the other day, and that the real test of Mr. English's popularity will come on the 2nd of November. We are assured that the "dander" of the candidate for Vice-President is up and that he intends to carry Indiana for the Democrats or break a trace. It is needless for us to add that he has our best wishes.

SHERMAN—HAMPTON.

For years it has been the settled policy of Republican statesmen in Washington to force representative Southern men into the fighting attitude. Since Brooks caned Sumner and Pryor had his little bout with Potter, the road to favor in Republican circles has been the back track with a Southern man in pursuit. The gentleman who could exhibit in a Northern State the marks of a Southern man's cane was elevated to instant martyrdom, and two years ago Mr. Conkling was really radiant with the thought that he had goaded Senator Lamar into sending him a challenge. The slightest resistance of the impetuous Southerner and his too ready hint at personal responsibility has been for twenty years the signal for setting New England ablaze with indignation over alleged "plantation manners:" though when Pig Iron Kelley and a Republican colleague stand up in the House and brand each other as liars and curs, the incident attracts no attention, because the country understands that this is but a specimen of Northern exuberance and is to be taken in a Pickwickian sense.

Mr. John Sherman, the friend of Mrs. Jenks and Eliza Pinkston, and the hero of the Electoral Fraud of 1876, has been going about, like Lawyer Meddle, for several years with his coat-tail parted, inviting a Southern boot-toe. He has at last been accommodated with a gentle kick, and is now on the market attempting to realize. Some weeks ago the Treasury Shark made a speech at a Republican conference in New York, in which he said, among other things: "And now you are asked to surrender all you have done into the hands of Wade Hampton and the Ku-Klux and the little segment in the North that is called the Democratic party." Senator Hampton, who has been since the close of the war one of the most conservative and law-abiding citizens in the South, instead of passing the slur by with the contempt that it deserved, sat down and wrote a gentlemanly note to Sherman asking him if he had been correctly reported. Sherman replied in effect that he had, and then at considerable length proceeded to show that if Hampton had not been a perpetrator of the terrible Ku-Klux crimes in the South he was a sharer in them and in every way accessory to them. Hampton's first letter was dated at Dagger Springs, Virginia—a name suggestive of gore and disaster. His second was dated at Charlottesville, Virginia, and was to this tenor:

Your letter has been received, and as you do not disclaim the language to which I called your attention, I have only to say that in using it you uttered what was absolutely false, and what you knew to be false. My address will be Columbia, S. C. I am your obedient servant.

This was precisely what Sherman desired. He immediately rushed into print instead of apologizing to Mr. Hampton for his insulting language and called upon the country to witness the spectacle of a loyal Secretary of the Treasury branded as a liar by an unrepentant rebel. The average Radical organ declares that Sherman has been challenged by the blood-thirsty Southerner; but the average Radical organ is more or less ignorant of the code. Hampton has simply called Mr. Sherman a liar for persistently repeating an untruth, and if there is any "honah" to be maintained or any challenging to be done the initiative will have to be taken by the bold Secretary. Hampton has intimated his willingness to receive a communication of a warlike character from John.

Of course, Mr. Hampton, though greatly provoked, has acted rashly in this matter. He has simply strengthened the belief which pervades the North that the average Southern man is a hot-blooded, dangerous fellow, and that the Southern statesman's creed is the pistol and bowie-knife. His act will be magnified, he will be worse lied about than ever and the political cause which he professes to serve will be materially injured. By virtue of conquering the States in rebellion, the Republican Apostle of Hate in the North claims the right to vilify and abuse, rob and insult every citizen of the South who was identified with the Rebellion. Resistance of any kind from that quarter constitutes fresh treason and is stock-in-trade for the party which thrives upon sectional animosity. Patient endurance and calmness in adversity has made the South many friends, and under the circumstances is the best policy to be pursued. Mr. Hampton has made a mistake. He has played into the hands of Sherman—has fallen blindly into the trap which is set in every campaign for just such representative Southern men.

A BIG donkey who flaps his elongated ears in the Cincinnati Commercial says that the leading Democrats of Ohio are disgusted to think that the late National Convention permitted two such beautiful dreamers as Henry Watterson and Joseph Pulitzer to insert the tariff plank in their platform. A close study of Democratic platforms of late years will reveal the fact that "a tariff for revenue only" is one of the established, historic tenets of the party. The leading Democrats of Ohio, who seem to be in need of a guardian, deserve the defeat which recently befell them for their cowardice. If they had explained to the Ohio idiots the real meaning of a tariff for revenue only, they might have won some votes for their party.

A STORY comes from St. Petersburg that the dissipated and immoral Czar, who used to get up such beautiful religious ceremonies after slaying a few thousand Mahommedan unbelievers, is in bad health and is about to resign his government into the hands of the Czarowitch. The fact of the business is that Alexander's recent matrimonial escapade has raised a terrible rumpus in court circles and society in general. If the Russian people were not a long-suffering,, patient race they would assist their unworthy ruler in his charitable design of "shaking all cares and business from his age," after the manner of King Lear.

ELATED with success, the ferocious Radical organ of Missouri shouts: "No necessity for calling the New York Legislature now. We are opposed to violent measures when we can get along without them." That is to say, the party of force, which stole the States of Louisiana and Florida in 1876, is encouraged to believe that it can purchase the Presidency this year, and will, therefore, refrain from violence. The big holders of Government bonds will be pleased to hear that there will be no resort to violent measures in order to prevent a change.

PIQUED by the determination of Mr. Schurz to give St. Louis a new census, the Chicago Times is publishing terrible stories from Washington about the frauds which were perpetrated by our census-takers ten years ago. It claims to have proof that 80,000 illegitimate names were enrolled by us in 1870. That's no reason why we should be swindled out of 50,000 names in 1880.

WADE HAMPTON ought to know that it is the proud privilege of such patriots as Sherman to say what they please about the Southern people, individually and collectively, and any objections on the part of the victims of their slanders are regarded as the offensive and rebellious tendencies of the Solid South.

WM. BAXTER, an Orange, Texas, desperado, discovered a new poker martingale upon which he had just begun to experiment when he died. Like all great discoveries Mr. Baxter's device was eminently simple. It consisted solely in grabbing the stakes and starting for the door if his hand was not heavy enough to bar down the pot. This idea gives a person a percentage of chances which is as safe as keno. In the first place, there is the natural opportunity on one's hand which is just about as good as any other player's, and when to this is added the other chance one can easily see how cumulative it is. Great innovators since the time of Sakya Muni, have invariably been met by persecution and opposition. The pages of history reek with the blood shed by the bearers of new light and William Baxter found the rule to hold good in his case as in others. A conservative poker player named Davis was unable to grasp the idea which William had evolved, and the consequence was that Baxter was dissevered as to his spinal column with a Winchester rifle bullet before he had quite finished his first experiment.

WE acknowledge the receipt of the following postal card:

WASHINGTON, October 15, 1880.

DEAR SIR—I desire to call your immediate attention to the editorial article under the caption, "The Democratic Opportunity," which appeared in the Post of Thursday, October 14, a marked copy of which is sent you. A careful perusal of the leader entitled, "The Issue of the Day," in the Post of October 15, is also urgently recommended.

Very truly yours,
W. S. HUTCHINS,
Managing Editor of the Post.

We desire to call the attention of the able young managing editor of the Washington Post to all the editorial articles contained in the POST-DISPATCH. Where all of them are so good it would be invidious to point out any particular one. We are greatly edified by the editorial essays on politics in the Post, but they do not compare with ours. We get more solid comfort, information and encouragement out of the editorial page of the POST-DISPATCH than Berlioz ever derived from his beloved Virgil. We commend the POST-DISPATCH to the talented young editor of the Post at all seasons of the year.

IN a burst of irony over the address of the Democratic Executive Committee anent Indiana, the like of which has not been heard since Demosthenes called Philip a wall-eyed mule with a tendency to hydrocephalous, the New York Graphic remarks: "Republicans, hang up your rooster. It's a dead dog." There is a truth in this remark which the feeble intellect of the Graphic man cannot plumb. If ever there was a rooster which bore points of resemblance to a defunct canine it is the Radical chanticleer.

A LOT of Circassian brigands succeeded in stampeding the butt end of a herd of Angora goats which some speculators were taking through the country for acclimatization in Cape Colony and Canada. It must have been a cheerful sight to see those rugged, bearded mountaineers eating goat's meat worth a dollar an ounce, but the speculators probably looked on more in Angora than in sorrow.

BALTIMORE is still celebrating her one-hundred-and-fiftieth birthday. The only thing they reverence down there is antiquity, and when they get started they can't stop. They should keep on celebrating their hoary hairs for the next century. The longer they celebrate the more cause there'll be for celebration; for in the very nature of things they must continue to grow older.

JOSEPH ASBURY, a Cincinnati stone-cutter, was met on his return home the other morning by his wife with a demand for money. He went to the bureau, took out a pistol, and blew his brains out without any further ado. This may have been Mr. Asbury's method of declining to put up, but the proper caper would have been for him to have shot Mrs. A.

WYOMING is the euphonius name of a very fine passenger steamer now loading here for Memphis and Helena. Reference is made to the fact because the enterprise is new and independent, and a very proper step towards utilizing the Mississippi.

A GOOD many hats of the nobbiest and latest style now ornament the streets, but they are carried about by the fellows who voted as the soldiers' shot.—[Cincinnati Commercial.

Yes, the fellows who do the voting fare better than the chaps who did the shooting. As a rule they go bare-headed.

NORMAN WIARD, the celebrated gun-burster and squanderer of public money, has been sued for divorce. Like his guns, his domestic circle couldn't stand the terrible strain which he put upon it.

MOODY and Sankey are making a dead set for the reclamation of Omaha. People will quit laughing now at the unsophisticated King Canute, who innocently thought that he could repress the rolling sea.

THE time will soon come for the republication, by request, of Mr. Chauncey I. Filley's masterpiece, "Beautiful Snow."

THE Tekke Turcomans have again resumed the offensive. The same might be said of most of the noses in St. Louis.

PRINCE HOHENLOHE is very sick. At last advices Prince Jackengamy was about as usual.

PERSONAL.

—Miss Nina Boucicault, the dramatist's youngest daughter, intends to adopt the profession of actress.

—Alexandre Dumas is staying in the country, engaged in writing a new play for the Theatre Francais.

—Portugal and Russia are about to be connected by a tender tie. The heir to the Portuguese throne is engaged to marry one of the Czar's nieces.

—Prince Gortschakoff, who has been staying at Baden, looks aged and worn. He walks about a good deal, but his pace is slow and his gait uncertain.

—Mlle. Bernhardt brings with her to this country a collection of her paintings and an unfinished bust of M. Coquelin, which she hopes to complete on the voyage.

—When Miss Alice Liddell—the original "Alice in Wonderland"—was married the other day, she wore among her ornaments a horse-shoe of pearls, the gift of Prince Leopold.

—Mr. Bancroft, the historian, was not mentioned in the recent Democratic Convention of Rhode Island, at which, it was stated, he was to have been nominated as a presidential elector.

—George Alfred Townsend delivers the poem at Dickinson College next summer. His second book of American tales, "Bohemian Days," appears in November. The first was a notable success.

—Gen. John F. Miller carried the Republican primaries of San Francisco against Senator Booth, and is pretty certain to be the next Senator from California, if the Republicans control the Legislature.

—A dispatch from Havre says that Sarah Bernhardt, her son, a lady companion, three attendants, Mr. Henry Jarrett, M. Angelo and Mlle. Marie Calombier sailed in the Amerique for New York last Saturday.

—Mr. Bjornstjerne Bjornson was pleasantly entertained in Boston, and is now proceeding with his studies of the American political system. Nobody will ever proceed to study his name on this side of the water.

—Victor Newcomb, who retires from the presidency of the Louisville, Nashville and Great Southern Railway, December 1, to seek rest under an impending danger of blindness, is only thirty-six years old, and is accounted worth $6,000,000.

—It is probable that Mr. John McCullough will, after all, make his first appearance in London in "Virginius," not in "Ion." Miss Anderson, by the way, proposes to revive the latter play on our own stage, and she is without doubt admirably suited to to the part of Ion.

—After Henry Ward Beecher had talked about politics for half an hour at his prayer-meeting last Friday evening, a stranger arose and began to discuss the kingdom of heaven. He spoke in a cracked voice, and Mr. Beecher at once began to frown upon him. After listening to him for two minutes Mr. Beecher interrupted him, saying: "Well, my young friend, I guess you had better wind up. As they say in Congress, we will give you leave to print the rest of your remarks." The young man dropped into his seat, much discomfited.

Artillery in Politics.

From the Chicago Times.

In the great Grant procession in New York the other day, batteries of artillery were conspicuous in the line. Fancy the introduction of such a feature in a political procession down South! Troops would be ordered out instantly, the loyal journals would grow black in the face, the party stumps turn livid—until after election.

The New Social Division.

From the New York World.

The Republicans are not content with dividing the country into two hostile camps of Sectionalists and Unionists. They are now bent on dividing society into two hostile camps of the capitalists who are to dictate opinions and of the laborers who are to accept them.

Not a Sure Thing.

From the Cincinnati Commercial (Rep.)

The Republicans are rejoicing that they have gained the next House of Representatives. We think the House distinctly within their grasp; but they must close their fingers and hold on with their best grip, especially in the close districts of New York and Pennsylvania.

Highly Inspirating.

From the Atlanta Constitution.

We are glad to learn that Mr. English is of the opinion that Indiana can be redeemed. It is consoling to know that Mr. English feels lively enough to give an opinion of any kind. This fact ought to start a rally.

No Mistaking It.

From the Philadelphia Times.

The Republicans of Washington fired a salute of 329 guns, last evening, over the Indiana victory. When Cameron orders his salute it will be 306 guns, and nobody will mistake its meaning.

John's Deliberation.

From the New York Star.

Mr John Kelly seems to have some hesitation about kicking himself out of the Democratic party this year.

PUBLIC OPINION.

Another Complainant.

O'FALLON, ILL., October 14, 1880.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I see by the POST-DISPATCH that I was not the only one who was taken in by reason of a pious sign over the door of the eating-house. Not desiring to patronize a place where intoxicants were sold I, with my family stopped at a place called the "Presbyterian Home," where, for seventy-five cents apiece, we were served the most miserable mess called dinner, it has ever been my misfortune to eat. We expect pay high prices at fairs, but expect something for our money and not be literally robbed. This system of pious imposition ought to be stopped. ILLINOIS.

[We can only account for the lateness of this complaint on the ground that the writer has just sufficiently recovered from his indignation and indigestion to take his pen in hand.—ED. P. D.]

Gossip on 'Change.

John F. O'Brien, the popular and top-priced flour salesman, has connected himself with the reliable commission house of Messrs. Flanagans & Richardson.

One of the rules of the Call Board on 'Change is that the space in front of the chairs occupied by the members shall be reserved exclusively for the caller and reporter, and that no offers of sale or bids will be considered when coming from the operators who encroach upon this space. This rule appears to be a dead letter, as every day at the different calls members get into this forbidden space—standing around or sitting on the telegraph counter and table; and their offers and bids are received by the caller as readily as though they were occupying their seats. This is a great annoyance to the reporter who is trying to catch the sales being made, as the noise these members make, not to speak of the way they jostle, push and lean on the reporters, distracts his attention and sometimes causes him to make mistakes. There are also some thoughtless parties who will insist upon interrupting the reporters at the call when they are at their busiest, asking the tone of the market, what such a grain sold at, etc., forgetting that they must keep on the alert to get all the sales and bids made, without stopping to answer every question made them.

DON'T fail to attend the auction sale of diamonds, watches, etc., at Cooper's, 405 North Fourth street, to-night.

ABOUT TOWN.

JOHN DEAGHAN was committed to the care of Jailor Ryan to-day on a warrant charging him with assault to kill.

THERE is a negro boy named Jesse Seymour at the Second District Police Station. He is either lost or has run away from home. Officer Eaves found him about 10 o'clock last night wandering aimlessly in the vicinity of Clara and Cherokee streets.

JOHN KRILL and his landlady had a disturbance at their residences on Russell avenue and Fifteenth. It was the commonest character of a neighborly row. If all the testimony was heard the case would take up hours, but Judge Jecko has a peculiar knack of disposing of those cases, and by dismissing it at the defendant's costs he settled the difficulty.

CITY PERSONALS.

Calvin F. Burnes, capitalist of St. Joseph, came down to the city this morning.

The Rt. Rev. P. J. Ryan, of this city, is said to be the most eloquent prelate in the Catholic Church.

Hon. Jas. O. Broadhead has a chin suggestive of good humor enough to go round among ten ordinary people.

W. H. Coffin, Land Commissioner of the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad, returned this morning from down the road.

Mr. Thos. Harvey, the attorney, mourns the loss of a suit of clothes he valued at $40. A sneak thief entered his room yesterday and made off with his togs.

Mr. John R. Reavis, of the Spectator, attires himself gaudily. He appeared on the streets to-day with a drab overcoat, a brown cut-away, black vest and maroon pants.

Rev. George O. Betts, of the Trinity Episcopal Church, is frequently mistaken for a Roman Catholic clergyman. He uses the clerical dress of the latter faith minutely.

Hotel Arrivals.

W. W. Walker, of Hannibal, is at the Lindell.

Calvin F. Burns, the St. Joe banker, is at the Lindell.

D. P. Greer, of Peoria, projector and owner of the C., B. & Q. elevator in East St. Louis, is at the Lindell.

General John Meacham, Surgeon in the U. S. Army, and stationed at Brownsville, Texas, is at the Lindell with his family.

Geo. N. Dunn, Pleasant Hill; Clifton Daney, Tennessee; James J. O'Day, Springfield, Samuel A. Herman, Omaha, and Fred. Reed, editor of the Railroader, Toledo, are at the Laclede.

T. H. Woodworth, Cincinnati; J. C. Phelps, N. M. McCowell, Walnut Ridge, Ark.; J. H. Somerville, Bridgeville, Ala.; Jas. Fulks, Ivy, Ill.; S. P. Howe, Le Mars, Iowa; A. J. Willis, Pittsburg; E. E. Evans, St. Joe Lead Mines, Mo., are at Barnum's.

DIAMONDS, watches and jewelry sold at auction at Cooper's, at 405 North Fourth street, every night.

The Water Route.

Mr. A. C. Adam, of the English shipping house of Adam Brothers, Newcastle on Tyne, whose arrival in St. Louis was yesterday noted in the POST-DISPATCH, was again on 'Change to-day. Mr. Adam is agitating a scheme for putting a regular line of ocean steamers between New Orleans and some English port. He has been getting the views of the heavy exporting houses of the city upon the subject, and the result is that the line will probably be in operation by spring. Mr. Adam has received a great deal of encouragement from the St. Louis shippers, and he is quite certain of an immense carrying trade as soon as the steamers are plying. Twelve heavy vessels will be put on at first.

Criminal Court.

The case against Wm. Williams was quashed by the finding of a new indictment. A nolle pros. was entered in the case of Edward Pointer, charged with burglary in the second degree. Twelve cases were continued.

CAMPAIGN OUTFITS.

A Branch of Trade that Flourishes During a Presidential Contest.

Over 8,000 Uniforms and 20,000 Torches Sold in this City—The Capital Invested.

But very few people outside of those directly engaged and interested in politics have any conception of the large amount of money invested in the political campaign equipment business in such a city as St. Louis. This peculiar business, and it is one peculiar to the American people, or at least the political struggles of the United States, is every year increasing, and statistics in connection with it are very interesting. With the object of gleaning some information on this subject a POST-DISPATCH representative to day approached the senior member of a firm on Fourth street which does the largest trade of this nature probably west of the Mississippi.

"Yes," said he, "we have been furnishing campaign outfits for years to the political organizations of this city and also of other sections of Western country, but during this canvass our business in that direction has increased at least six-fold. Since the opening of the campaign we have filled orders for at least 100,000 outfits, and that's a pretty large number. A complete outfit or uniform consists of a cape, hat and torch. The cape and hat are made of oil-cloth and painted in colors according to the taste of those who order them. We make up all our goods, and 200 girls and nearly a score of men are at work on Fourth street, near Olive, in manufacturing them. As to which of the parties used most of the campaign goods, this gentleman said that their trade was pretty evenly divided. Since the news of the Indiana and Ohio elections it had, however, been brisker than ever before, and they were scarcely able to fill their orders. On Saturday night they received one order for 3,000 uniforms. Nearly one-half of the outfits they had sold went into the State of Illinois and at least three-fourths of those sold were bought by Hancock and English organizations. About a quarter of the whole had gone into Wm. R. Morrison's district.

There is nothing new this year in the uniforms—that is, the hats and capes. There is, however, a novelty in the torches, one of which is the flash torch, which can be, by the bearer's drawing a cork at its side, and blowing a small tube, made to blaze up and throw a strong and brilliant light. There will be at the lowest a business of $250,000 in campaign goods done in this city before the close of the election. A great portion of the orders received are from small places in Missouri, Illinois and Indiana. A small firm in this city has since the campaign opened and sold 20,000 torches and about 8,000 uniforms. The prices of outfits run from $75 to $125 a hundred. One firm has sold nearly 800 large flags 15 by 30 feet in size and the demand is still on the increase. In fact the rush for goods of this description is so great that the firms are absolutely unable to promptly fill the orders they receive. Among the equipments that are sometimes ordered are swords with which the captains of companies cut a figure at the grand rallies. As a general thing the pocket-book of the candidate becomes flatte ned through the display of these gorgeous attirements. In some of the houses members of different parties in quest of campaign accoutrements very often meet, but on these occasions the utmost good nature prevails.

ORDER OF RAILWAY CONDUCTORS.

The Thirteenth Annual Meeting at Druids' Hall To-day.

The thirteenth annual meeting of the Order of Railway Conductors of the United States opened in this city this morning at Druids' Hall at 9 o'clock. There will be two sessions daily, closing on Friday. The order has now about 2,000 members, but it is very difficult for more than one representative from each railroad to get leave of absence to attend the annual meetings. Consequently, when the convention opened this morning but fifty-five delegates were found to answer to their names at roll-call. Grand Chief Conductor John B. Morford, of the New Jersey Central Railroad, presided to-day. Among the other officers present are Grand Secretary W. P. Daniels, of the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern Railroad; Past Grand Chief Conductor J. H. Kimball, of the New York, Erie and Western Railroad; W. L. Collins, of the Erie, Assistant Chief Conductor, and L. B. Carver, of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, Grand Senior Conductor. After the reading of the minutes this morning a committee on credentials was appointed. After this committee had reported and a standing committee had been appointed by the presiding officer the session adjourned to 2:30. At the afternoon session the Grand Chief Conductor gave the usual annual address, which chiefly related to the workings of the order during the past year. Following the address the Grand Secretary and Treasurer made his annual report concerning the membership and finances of the order. It is expected that a number of delegates will arrive to-night and to-morrow, swelling the attendance to about one hundred. The sessions to morrow and Thursday will be, as they were to-day, secret, but on Friday there will be an open session. The last meeting of the association took place in New York City, and the year before in Chicago. This is the first time it has ever convened here. One of the features of the order is an insurance plan with mutual benefits limited to $1,000. Only about one half of the members, however, participate in the insurance feature. The meeting will close this year with an excursion to Houston, Texas, and back.

REMARKABLE SHOOTING.

Nearly Five Hundred Ducks Bagged in Three Days by Six Men.

One of the most remarkable performances in the matter of duck shooting ever heard of in this section of the country was the bagging of 463 ducks at Dardenne Lake on Saturday, Sunday and Monday by six members of the Dardenne Hunting Club. The gentlemen went up to the grounds of the club on Friday night. On Saturday the ducks began to arrive in great numbers, driven by the heavy storm of Friday night, and the Dardenne Lakes became a sportsman's paradise.

Over six hundred of the fowl were killed, of which 463 were retrieved. Of this number 410 were mallard ducks. Thomas T. Burtt and Mr. Joseph Card particularly distinguished themselves. Mr. Card lost a very fine retriever which was seized with cramps while in the water and died before assistance could reach it. Mr. Card also shot a fine large Arctic goose, snow-white, with the exception of black tips upon the wings. This was a most remarkable piece of luck, and as the bird is one of rare beauty, and of a kind not brought down once in many years, Mr. Card will have it mounted by a taxidermist. In addition to the ducks the party bagged twenty-one jacksnipe and three geese. They arrived in the city this morning loaded down with the spoils of their sport, which they freely distributed among their friends. Members of the Dardenne Club do not sell game.

Second District Police Court.

Twenty-three prisoners answered to the call of the Marshal at Judge Denison's Court this morning. John Askaline was arraigned to answer the charge of being drunk on the streets. He was fined $20 and sent to the Work-house. Jack Anderson had two charges to answer, for disturbing the peace and carrying concealed weapons. His assessment amounted to $15. The following ones were each fined $5 for disturbing the peace: Patrick McGrath, Lizzie Roberts, Wm. O'Brien, Ben Miller, Ella Ward, Lizzie Moody, Lucy Mackey and Hattie Tate. All the other cases were continued till October 20.

Colonel Crittenden.

Colonel Thomas T. Crittenden arrived in the city from his home at Warrensburg this morning, and has spent most of the day in consultation with the local members of the State Committee. To-morrow the Colonel speaks with Senator Cockrell at Potosi. The Colonel is quite confident of Hancock's success. The defeat in Indiana will stir the Democrats to renewed exertion. Colonel Crittenden says a most gallant canvass is being made in all the districts where Greenback tickets make the fight close, and there is every reason to believe that Missouri will send a solid delegation to Congress.

THE EPIZOOTY.

It is Raging in a Mild Form Throughout the City.

A List of the Stables Where the Horses Are Affected.

The epizootic, so dreaded by horse owners, and which has prevailed in the East for some time, has made its appearance here in unmistakable form, though at present little danger is apprehended. The form of the attack is mild, though nearly all the symptoms of the disease, which developed in 1872, and which proved so fatal then, are noticed now. The hacking cough is the same, though the horses do not labor so much or exhibit a great degree of pain. A larger number are running at the nose, which fact is considered by some to be a favorable sign, as the head does not become clogged up. The mules are also touched, but not to such an extent as the horses, and do not seem to be as much affected by it. Except in very few instances, where the animal is a very valuable one or is owned by private parties, the sick are worked as usual, though not quite so hard. A little attention given by the pedestrian on the street to almost any passing horse will soon convince him of the prevalence of the disease. A reporter visited a number of livery and car stables, at all of which the stock was affected. In answer to inquiries, the proprietors stated that the disease made its appearance last week and became general Thursday night and Friday morning. It was, doubtless, brought on by the stormy weather. It is a matter of fact, however, that there were cases here prior to that time, as several of the horses on exhibition at the Fair were troubled with the distinguishing cough. One of them, the most promising of all the fast ones, Bonnie Priam, died of the disease at Carondelet on the last day of the Fair.

THE OWNERS WHOSE HORSES ARE AFFECTED.

Jesse Arnot has about fifty horses down with it, but all are being worked. A number are running at the nose.

Porter Leonard said that out of his one hundred horses, only six are affected. He does not anticipate any trouble from it.

Louis Bohle does not speak quite so cheerfully. At his stable, about fifty horses are down with it, one-third of them having all the symptoms.

Alexander & Krum say that they have about sixty head on hand, nearly all of them being sick but not bad enough to prevent their being worked.

The Star stables have between twenty and thirty, every one of which is affected. They have 300 mules in the pen that are all right.

All the other stables are sufferers in the same proportion, and the street railways experience their share.

At the Washington avenue stables of the Lindell Railway Company, out of 200 horses something over seventy-five are sick, one-third having running at the nose.

At the Chouteau avenue stables of the same line the mules as well as the horses have taken it, and only three or four are free from it.

Nearly every one of the two hundred horses on the Fifth street line is sick.

The worst cases heard of are at Mr. Stealing's brick yard on Compton Hill, where several of the horses were rendered unfit for work.

Three horses of the Gruner Bros. Lumber Company were taken with the epizootic last night in a mild form, and a horse at the Fourth District Station is also suffering from the same disease.

The horses belonging to the Fire Department have not escaped the general scourge, as nearly every one of them is slightly sick. They are still able to do efficient work, and are expected to pass through the ordeal safely.

THE COTTON EXCHANGE.

Annual Election of Officers—The Regular Ticket Probably Elected.

The regular annual election of the St. Louis Cotton Exchange for a president, vice-president and seven directors took place to-day at the exchange. The polls opened at 9 a. m. and closed at 3 p. m. The judges of the election were Messrs. S. Cranwill, H. C. West and Joseph Schwab. There were four tickets in the field, although they differed but slightly. Two of these tickets were headed "Jas. L. Sloss, President," and two "J. D. Goldman, President." The Sloss ticket was the regular one nominated at a caucus held last Saturday. The last director's name on this ticket was A. A. Paton. On the other Sloss ticket E. M. Kirtland was substituted for Paton, as he also was on one of the Goldman tickets. Or, in other words, A. A. Paton and E. M. Kirtland each appear on both the Goldman and the Sloss tickets. In other respects the four tickets were identical. Although Mr. Goldman developed considerable strength as an opposition to the regular nominee for president, Mr. Sloss, still the probabilities were entirely in favor of the election of the regular ticket straight only half an hour before the polls closed. This ticket is as follows:

For President, James L. Sloss; for Vice-President, Wm. L. Black; for Directors, D. P. Rowland, Wm. M. Senter, Wm. F. Obear, R. H. Allen, Jr., Otto Magnus, I. M. Wiener, A. A. Paton.

HENRY HELLERY.

The Veteran Barkeeper Dies Suddenly and Is Buried To-Day.

Henry Hellery, perhaps better known as "Sazerc," was buried from his late residence, No. 1615 Clark avenue, this afternoon at two o'clock, and the remains of this celebrated character were followed to Bellefontaine by an imposing cortege, nearly all of the barkeepers of the city turning out to do honor to this chief of their craft. No man who ever ruled behind a bar was as well and favorably known as Mr. Hellery. He was without question the most scientific mixer of drinks ever known in this country. For many years he was a steamboat barkeeper, and while owning and attending to the bar on the Ruth, he also owned a half dozen more. When the palmy days of the river began to wane, he went into business on Pine street, between Main and Second, and called the resort "Sazerac." He subsequently moved to Main and Olive, and then to Olive street, between Sixth and Seventh, where he had the largest retail liquor business ever conducted in St. Louis for many years. At one time Mr. Hellery was reputed to be very wealthy. His great specialties were lime punches, lemonades and bottled mint juleps, the latter of which have been sent all over the world. Pneumonia was the disease that carried him off. A wife and three children mourn his loss.

A Miraculous Escape.

About 1 o'clock yesterday the little three-year-old daughter of Officer Angevine met with an accident which nearly proved fatal. The mother of the child went down in the cellar to get some coal, leaving the child up stairs. In a few moments the mother heard a dull sound, as if something had hit the cellar door. Upon looking around she saw her little daughter lying at her feet. Dr. Frazier was immediately summoned, and upon examination could find no injuries upon the child save a few bruises. The distance from the top of the stairs to the cellar floor is, at least, thirty-two feet. The child remained insensible for about twenty minutes after she fell, and then woke up and began looking for a nickel she had lost. To-day at noon the child was as well as ever.

Their Photos Taken.

William Mason, W. Croup and Charles Foster arrived in town yesterday from Cincinnati. The peculiar fact about these arrivals is that views of their intention to visit this city was sent forward by Eastern authorities. The three men are regarded by the police as hard cases and expert safe-blowers. At 6 o'clock this morning the three men were arrested in bed at 817½ Locust street. Their photographs were taken and the men will be set free and given an opportunity to leave town.

Court of Criminal Correction.

The case of assault to kill against Archie Irvin was dismissed for want of persecution. William Wand, charged with assault to do great bodily harm, was held in the sum of $500. Maggie Sheehan was given six months in jail for stealing some towels, stockings, etc., from Rosa F. Hatch. She received the same sentence for stealing a diamond ring and some small articles from Miss I. Reinbold. In the case of stealing $55 from Charles Schwarze Jacob Zimmerman was put under $600 bond. Grand larceny is the charge. Hugh J. Malloy was bound over in the sum of $800 on a charge of assault to kill. He furnished the requisite bonds. Mary Wilde was sentenced to three months in jail for stealing a dress from Louise Thomas. John McFarland, for the larceny of a pair of shoes, was given three months in the Work-house.

It is generally stated that the Republican Central Committee, in secret session last Friday evening, nominated John O'Brien, the grocer, for Constable in the Second Ward.

MONEY.

New York exhange turned a perfect flip flop to-day. From a steady market it has changed to dullness and weakness. Plenty of exchange is being made just now, and the supply is far in excess of any demand, so that it went begging at $1 discount. Outside of this there was nothing particularly new. For money there was a fair demand from about all branches of trade, and discount rates were steady at 8 per cent on time loans. Call loans quotable at 5@6 per cent. Currency moved freely into the country.

On 'Change.

Beerbohm—Liverpool spot wheat quiet. Shipments 6d@1s per quarter lower. Private cables report spot wheat as 1d per cental lower.

J. B. Lawes estimates that Great Britain will require to import 112,000,000 bushels of foreign wheat during the year. More than half the population must be fed on this imported bread, and of this America must furnish sixty-five to seventy per cent, and possibly a greater proportion.

Toledo is making a vigorous kick because her market is not telegraphed as full to New York as other Western markets. She claims to be the largest wheat market in the West this year, and for that reason should be more fully reported. The St. Louis market has never been telegraphed East as its importance demands, but her merchants stand this as indifferently as they do in a great many other instances where St. Louis is discriminated against.

Wright & Co., of Rio de Janeiro, telegraphs Rob't E. M. Bain the stock of flour in that market as 10,000 barrels. Market steady at 21 mil-reis for Richmond and 20 mil reis for Baltimore flour.

There was an excellent legitimate demand for No. 2 red wheat to-day at the reduced prices. George Bain stood up manfully under about 155 cars poured on to him at the call, and not even the boutonniere wilted under the load.

U. J. Livingston, chief grain inspector, is now engaged in making up another type sample of the lowered grade of No. 2, which, it is expected, will be ready for inspection by to-morrow, and probably presented to the Exchange Board of Directors at their next meeting, with a request that they substitute the latter sample (if it is satisfactory to the low graders) for the first one made up.

Alex. H. Smith, George Bain, Craig Alexander and Will Boyd, comprising the Stay-Right-Where-You-Are Club, will leave Saturday for Knobel Lake, Ark., for a week's fishing and hunting. Mr. Smith has been deposed from the position of Commissary, as in past expeditions he furnished too much bread. Geo. Bain now has charge of the provision department, and as a slight sample of what he is laying in, it may be stated that eight one-dozen case boxes of Lemp's beer have been ordered by him.

The Markets.

MORNING BOARD.

Flour—Market in buyers' favor and quiet. Sales only to be made at concessions of about 5c. We quote: Fancy $5 45@5 75; choice $5 05@5 20; family $4 80@5 00; xxx $4 50@4 70; xx $3 90@4 05; x $3 60@3 80; superfine $3 30@3 45; fine $2 80@3 05.

Wheat—Another unsettled market, but fluctuations in prices not so violent and frequent and the tone generally much weaker than yesterday, with something of a decline established by the close. The demand for grades was active, but only at lower rates, which sellers quite readily met. Exporters, millers and Eastern shippers were the chief purchasers. No. 2 red sold at $1 01⅛@1 01¼; No. 3 red at 94@94½c this, 94¾ east side; No. 4 at 89¾ this, 90 east side; No. 2 Mediterranean at 98@97⅛ and No. 3 do at 92½@92⅛c; for rejected 82 and 83c bid. Futures were a good deal quieter, with comparatively light trading, as though operators were afraid with the market on the fence. November sold at $1 03⅛@1 02¾, closing at $1 02⅝ bid; December at $1 06@1 05⅛, closing at $1 05⅝; year at $1 02@1 01¼; January at $1 07⅛@1 06⅛; October nominal at $1 01⅛.

Corn was quite well sustained in value, with advances paid early, but weakened somewhat later, although closing about unchanged, as compared with yesterday. Exporters were quick buyers of No. 2 mixed at 39⅜@39⅛c, and some sold on orders; the former also purchased No. 2 white-mixed at 40⅛c, and a few cars went on orders at 40⅛c; rejected do sold at 39⅛c and rejected at 37⅛@38c. Futures were slow, local operators giving it little attention; sellers were stiff. November sold at 40@39⅞c. December at 40⅛@40c, year at 39⅛c, January at 40⅛c, May at 44⅞@⅜c.

Oats—Cash better and exhibiting a good deal of strength. Speculators and order dealers, competing for cash No. 2, run up in price, with sales at 29⅛@29⅛c, closing at 29⅛c; for No. 2 white 30⅛c was bid, and for rejected 28⅛c bid. Futures were very strong, though showing little quotable change; demand good; November sold at 30c, and had 30@⅛c bid later; December at 31⅛c; year at 29⅛c—that bid for October; May at 35c.

Rye was firmer and No. 2 in first-rate order request, with sales at 82⅛c@82⅝c, this side, and at 83c East; rejected salable at 76⅛c, with 77⅛c asked.

Hay—Well sustained in value, with a good order and feeding demand, particularly for good qualities. We quote: Prairie, $9@10; mixed, $12@12 50; prime timothy, $12 50@13; choice do, 14@14 50; fancy do, 17@15 50.

Millstuffs—Better and firm, with a demand for bran, for which 62c was bid at the mill. Supply rather scant.

Provisions—Almost demoralized, a break in Chicago and a falling off in orders here taking all the stiffening out of sellers. At the lower rates, however, there was a right fair movement. Pork jobbed at $15 50@15 37½ with few buyers. Lard sold at 8.15c, but that was an outside figure. Some sales of loose dry salt were made at 4 95c for shoulders and 7⅝c for clear rib, but later there were sellers at 4.90c and 7.70c and 8c. Packed bacon moved at 5⅛c for shoulders, 8⅛c@8⅝c for clear ribs, 8.65@8 60 for short clear. Tallow 5⅛@5⅞c, according to quality.

AFTERNOON CALL.

Wheat—Better but closed weak. October sold $1 01¼; December at $1 05¾@1 05½; January at $1 06⅞, later $1 06⅝ asked. Bids of $1 02⅝@1 02½ November; $1 01¼ year.

Corn—Steady; sales October at 39⅛c; November 39⅞c. Bids of 40@40⅛ December, 39⅝ year, 40⅝ January, 34⅛ May.

Oats—No trading. Bids 29⅛ cash; 29⅛@29⅝ October, 30c November; 31⅛ December, 29⅛ year.

CATTLE—There was a great deal of activity in the grass Texan cattle department this forenoon and the moderate supply found prompt disposal and brought strong prices. Hunter, Evans & Co. had some good 900 to 1,000-lb grass Texan steers in from Gainesville, Texas, which sold direct from the chutes at strong prices to local speculators, who paid from $3@3 40 per 100 lbs. Those buyers and the consumers were quite urgent in their demands and would readily have consumed double the number offered. Stock cattle and feeding steers were in light inquiry. Mixed native butchers' stuff scarce and wanted. Eastern shippers were ruled out of the market entirely for want of native steers. Milch cows with calves scarce. Yesterday afternoon there was no business for want of supplies, and this afternoon will be the same. Ruling quotations steady.

HOGS—Light shipping Yorkers and Baltimores of 180 to 220 lbs were selling this forenoon at the prices of yesterday afternoon, the range being from $4 55@4 65, with bulk of sales at $4 55@4 60 per 100 lbs. Boston and Philadelphia buyers or shippers were very slow in their operations, and took good and select heavy at $4 65@4 75 per 100 lbs. Butcher buyers did not want many, while packers were out of the market entirely. Perhaps fancy butchers will bring $4 80. Rough hogs and pigs dull.

THE GUNNISON.

Chat With Some Gentlemen Direct from El Dorado.

The Mines—The Trouble With the Utes and Its Origin.

Messrs. Geo. R. Cornwall, H. C. Cornwall and Percy Ramsdun arrived at the Planters' House yesterday, registering from Ruby Camp, Gunnison county, Colorado. A POST-DISPATCH reporter met the gentlemen and had quite a long talk concerning the famed Gunnison country and its untold wealth. About seventeen or eighteen months ago a few pioneers struck a rich lead in the country, and the news spread like wildfire. Prospectors rushed in en masse, some to succeed, and others to find their bright hopes of amassing a fortune crumble to dust like the soil into which they delved with their picks. The gentlemen above alluded to, who are young men, were among the first to penetrate into the undiscovered country, and have remained there ever since. In speaking of Ruby Camp, Mr. Cornwall said: "About a year ago Ruby Camp consisted of two or three log cabins. To-day it is laid out and a town of between five and six hundred inhabitants, with a good city government established."

"How are the mines out there?" was asked.

"There are four mines of note in our neighborhood, the Forest Queen, Ruby King, Lead Chief and Bullion King, which is now owned by Jack Haverly, who paid $100,000 for it. The Forest Queen is the best by far, shipping about twenty tons a day. Ruby King gives about ten tons and the other two combined furnish about the same amounts. These mines pan out from 200 to 500 ounces to the ton. Referring to Gunnison City, Mr. Cornwall said that it was destined to be a town of considerable consequence. Not much over one year ago it was a lonely, deserted spot and now it is teeming with business enterprise, civilization and wealth. Houses are being built there at a cost of $30,000 and over. Next spring a railroad will reach it and the height of prosperity will be attained. As an opinion obtains among a great many that the Indians are a little too troublesome, and that the chances of losing one's hair are somewhat too great to warrant the venture into the Dorado, Mr. Cornwall was questioned on this subject and the probabilities of another Ute uprising as shadowed in the telegraphic reports. Not long ago a trader named Jackson was killed by the Indians, the particulars of which have already been published. The complications growing out of the murder are still unsettled, and Indian Agent Berry, who was involved, appears to be in a disagreeable position, as shown by the dispatches this morning.

"Do you know anything about Jackson's murder?" asked the reporter.

"I know nothing of my own personal knowledge, and heard of it only when passing through Gunnison. We reached there the day after a posse was sent out to arrest Berry and Cline. According to the history of the case given us, the traders were camping when a body of Utes came up, and fired their pistols, most probably to create a scare, but with no intention of a fight. Jackson rushed behind one of the wagons, and, firing his rifle, killed one of the Indians. The latter reported the matter, and Berry, Cline and one or two others arrested Jackson. They left camp to jail him, but came back shortly afterwards minus their prisoner. They said that they had been overpowered by the Indians, who killed Jackson. Some time afterwards a Ute exhibited a scalp, which was said to be Jackson's."

"Do you apprehend any danger from the savages?"

"No. We are well enough fixed now, anyhow, to repel their attacks if any are made. Last year, when the usual fall scare was started, the majority of the prospectors in our neighborhood left, leaving about twenty-eight of us, who built a stockade, behind which we remained all winter. I really do not think there will be any serious trouble from the Indians. We are just on the edge of the reservation, and they could pounce down on us in a day, but there is little probability of them doing it. Besides the snows are setting in and in a short while the mountain passes and gulches will be rendered impassable. If the Utes leave their reservation they will most probably be blockaded by snow. They are peaceable enough as far as I have been able to judge, and generally appear to be jolly sort of fellows."

"Did the fact of there being a report of an uprising induce your departure?"

"Oh, no; we have been out there seventeen months and concluded to spend the winter in New York, for which place we leave this evening."

AMUSEMENTS.

Pope's Theater.

A new musical peculiarity called "Lawn Tennis," from the pen of Mr. B. E. Woolf, the author of "The Mighty Dollar," "Hobbies," etc., was produced at Pope's Theater last evening. It is a farcical and musical satire upon the Woman's Rights question. As regards the literary excellence of the piece little can be said. The dialogue is not particularly witty or sparkling. The success of the entertainment is made by the company engaged in it. The first act is entitled "Lawn Tennis" and the stage-setting is exquisite. But the masterpiece of scenic art is the beautiful interior of the Man-Tamers' Club—the third act. This scene was painted and prepared especially for the "Lawn Tennis" party, and nothing like it has ever been seen in St. Louis before. It is simply lovely, and is in itself well worth the price of admission. It illustrates the rage for bric-a-brac and objets de vertu carried to an extreme, but the artistic, harmonious blending of the colors, the unique richness and the originality of the design are really wonderful. No one should miss seeing the "Man-Tamers' Club." It is a striking exemplification of real artistic stage setting and the bedaubed scenes which usually serve as such. Mr. John Howson, the comedian, as Cornwallis Algernon Prout, was presumably the funny feature of the performance, but it was not until the third act that he seemed able to shed any humor. Dressed up in female attire, he then succeeded in provoking roar after roar of laughter. In the first two acts, however, he displayed too much obtrusiveness. Mr. Digby V. Bell, as Alfred Puddifoot, the dramatist in search of a "plot," acted with vigor and made the most of his part. His singing was excellent as ever. Mr. James Barton gave a capital delineation of Capt. Dowton, an energetic Englishman. J. C. Armand's singing was the best part of him. F. W. Lennox as Dalchett was satisfactory. Hatty Tracy, as Mrs. Cornwallis Algernon Prout, acted with ease and charming espieglerie. Lilian Brooks-Bell made a fascinating Belle Stanley, and sang well. Mrs. J. H. Rowe was as "paralyzing" a woman's rights advocate as one would desire to meet, while Marie Janson and Adelaide Carelton were pretty and intelligent rickets. The musical portion of the performance was the one which met with the most enthusiastic reception. Most of the artists are gifted with fine voices and have received high musical training. Some of the numbers were encored twice or thrice. In the second act the operettina of "Djakh and Djill," score and libretto by Mr. Woolf, is introduced. The music is pretty, bright and catchy. Miss Bell was an excellent Djill, and Mr. Armand sang the music of Djakh remarkably well. Mr. Howson as the king, and Mr. Bell as Don Guzman entered fully into the sport of the operettina. Miss Jansen as the Abigail and Mr. Barton as the Seneschal were also admirably suited to their parts. "Lawn Tennis" is sure of proving a great attraction. The exquisite stage scenes will alone attract attention. Added to this, the costumes are all new and elegant, the company exceedingly strong, both musically and dramatically, and thus the piece combines the requisites of success. It will be produced every evening during the week.

Grand Opera-House.

John Habberton, author of "Helen's Babies," has entered the lists as a playwright. The first fruit of his pen was a New England idyl named "Deacon Crankett," after the central figure of the play. His initial work as a dramatist was produced at the Union Square Theater two weeks ago by the Mead & Maginley Combination, and, according to the New York press, achieved an instantaneous success. Direct from New York the original company came here, and last evening gave the first performance of "Deacon Crankett" to a St. Louis audience at the Grand Opera-house.

The leading character, the Deacon, is a rich, jovial, pious old Massachusetts farmer. He has no children, but he has all the affection of a father for Joe Thatcher, a sturdy young fisherman, for whom he holds some money left by his father in trust. Joe is in love with Eleanor Heatherton, a New York beauty, who spends her summers on the Deacon's farm, and is also the pet of the Deacon and his wife. Joe avows his passion and is to receive an answer in the evening, but in the meantime he discovers Eleanor in a tete-a-tete with Egbert Gray, a young New York banker, under such circumstances as to compel the belief that Egbert is the favored lover. While he is enjoying the agony of the situation, dispatches from New York inform the Deacon that Gray has embezzled Thatcher's money, which the Deacon had entrusted to him, and also a large number of bonds, the bulk of the fortune of Eleanor's father, while simultaneously the news comes that Gray has disappeared. Joe, believing that he has been at once swindled out of his money and his sweetheart, swears vengeance against Gray, and sets off to hunt him down. The scene shifts from the Massachusetts farm to a New York hotel, and shows Joe returned sick and disheartened from what he regrets as a fruitless journey to the Mediterranean. He is accompanied, however, by Gray, whose acquaintance he has made under the assumed name of Tarpaulin, and to whom, as almost the only friend left to him, he tells the story of his wrongs. Gray is a rascal with a conscience; he endeavors, unavailingly, to mitigate Joe's indignation by pleading all the extenuating circumstances as for an unfortunate third party, but Joe is obdurate and repeats his vow of vengeance, ignorant, of course, that Gray is no other than his own bosom friend, Tarpaulin. Meanwhile, Eleanor is pining away for Joe, and persuades her father to take her back in midwinter to Massachusetts, where she is received with open arms. Joe returns, but, misunderstanding an overheard soliloquy by Eleanor, he believes she is still sighing for Gray, and sets off with a new purpose, not to kill the defaulter, but to compel him to marry Eleanor. In the fourth act, where the scene is laid in a Maine log cabin, Gray, still incognito, returns to the presence of the Deacon in company with Joe. He is recognized by the Deacon, who keeps the secret, and to whom he avows his determination to make reparation, and finally assures Joe, in a terribly exciting scene, that he is really no other than the defaulter Gray, and that Eleanor had rejected him. The drama is happily wound up in the fifth act, where Joe is restored to the arms of his love, and everything ends happily.

Ben Maginley as the Deacon gives a fine portraiture of the sturdy farmer—a piece of character acting inimitable in its way. Mr. Joseph Wheelock as Joe Thatcher was powerful and effective. The other characters were all well sustained. "Deacon Crankett" is announced for all the week.

Olympic.

Denman Thompson appeared again last evening before a large audience, in his wonderful dramatization of "Uncle Josh." The breezy, lovable old Yankee farmer was sketched with that consummate art which has made it one of the most striking stage portraitures of the day. The company is excellent, while the musical part of the play has become a feature. Misss Logan's remarkable ballad singing, the quartette in the last act, etc.—every selection was encored. The $20,000 worth of diamond jewelry worn by the ladies in the ball room scene in the second act also attracted much attention. Joshua Whitcomb retains as great a popularity as ever, and, before the week is over, people will be unable to gain admittance to the theater.

Theatre Comique.

The management has put on another excellent bill at the Theatre Comique this week. Mealey and Mackey, Manchester and Jennings and Annie and Joe Burgess are exceptionally good.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING.

WABASH, ST. LOUIS & PACIFIC RAILWAY CO., }
ST. LOUIS, MO., September 17, 1880. }

A SPECIAL meeting of the stockholders of this company will be held at the office of the company at St. Louis, Mo., on Saturday, November 20, 1880, commencing at 10 o'clock a. m., to act upon the following agreements made by the Board of Directors of said company.

An agreement to issue the bonds of this company to the amount of sixteen hundred thousand dollars, dated December 1, A. D. 1880, payable thirty years after date with interest at 6 per cent, payable semi-annually, and secured by mortgage upon the railroad formerly belonging to the Champaign, Havana and Western Railway Company, as required by the terms of consolidation with said company.

An agreement with the Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska Railway Company, whereby this company accepts a lease in perpetuity of the Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska Railway, and covenants to issue in payment therefor the six per cent bonds of this Company heretofore authorized and secured by its present General Mortgage, or other bonds of this Company of like tenor and effect, secured by mortgage on the said Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska Railway, to an amount not exceeding two millions, two hundred and fifty thousand dollars; and also to issue, partly in further payment for said lease and partly in exchange for the stock of said Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska Railway Company, the common and preferred stock of this Company to the extent of not exceeding seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars each, being an increase of the Capital Stock of his Company to that extent.

An agreement with the Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska Railroad Company, providing for the construction of the railway of said company from the present terminus of the railway of the Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska Railway Company, at Centreville, Iowa, westward to the Missouri River, the lease thereof to this company in perpetuity of said railway; and the payment therefore by this company in 6 per cent bonds of this company, now issued and secured by its general mortgage, or in other bonds of like tenor and effect, secured by mortgage on the railroad of said Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska Railroad Company.

The said agreement provides also for the exchange of the capital stock of the Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska Railroad Company for the capital stock of this company, upon terms therein defined, being an increase of the preferred and common stock of this company to an amount not exceeding seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars each.

An agreement with the Attica, Covington and Southern Railway Company of Indiana, for the construction of the railway of that company for the lease of the same in perpetuity to this company.

An agreement for the construction of an extension of the railway formerly owned by the Champaign, Havana and Western Railway Company from Havana, Illinois, to Quincy, Illinois, and payment for the same by the issue of bonds of this company secured by its general mortgage, to an amount not exceeding fifteen thousand dollars per mile of such constructed road.

An agreement between this company and the Great Western Railway Company of Canada, for carrying the traffic of this company over the railway of that company during a term of years, upon terms therein defined.

An agreement between this company, the New York, Lackawanna and Western, and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, securing to this company certain rights of traffic over the railroads of the two companies last named.

An agreement between this company and the Chicago and Western Indiana Railroad Company, providing for the lease by that company to this company of certain terminal facilities in the city of Chicago, and the guarantee by this company of the bonds of that company, bearing interest equal to the rental named in said agreement.

An agreement for the construction of a branch of the Chicago Division of the Railway of this company, commencing at a point near the intersection of the Mazon River with said railway, and extending westward through the Braidwood coal region to a connection with the Toledo, Peoria and Warsaw Railway at Washington, Illinois. The construction of such branch railroad to be paid for in bonds secured by the general mortgage of this company, to an amount not exceeding fifteen thousand dollars per mile.

An agreement with the "Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific R'y Co. of Nebraska," for the construction of the railroad of said Company in Nebraska and the transfer of said railroad to this Company by lease or consolidation, as the Stockholders of this Company may determine.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

State of Missouri, City of St. Louis, ss.
In the Circuit Court City of St. Louis, October Term, 1880.
Monday, October 4, 1880.
Katie Springer
vs.
Edgar S. Springer.

It appearing from the petition herein duly verified by affidavit that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Missouri, therefore, on motion of plaintiff, by attorney, it is ordered that said defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against him, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony existing between plaintiff and defendant, on the ground that defendant absented himself without reasonable cause for the space of more than one whole year next preceding the filing of the petition herein.

And unless he appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the city of St. Louis, within and for the city of St. Louis, on the first Monday of December next, and, on or before the third day thereof, answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against him as confessed.

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis POST-DISPATCH, a newspaper printed and published in the city of St. Louis.

A true copy from the record.

Witness my hand and seal of the Circuit Court city of St. Louis, this 4th day of October, 1880.

Leopold Schmalz
vs.
Frederick Schwartz, James Bissell, Robert A. Barnes, Virginia Bissell and George R. Bissell, her husband, Eugene Bissell, Catherine Bissell, Cora R. Bissell, Louis H. Bissell and Annie Haight Bissell.

Before Justice P. J. Taaffe, of the Fifth District of the City of St. Louis, Mo.

Case No. 78. August issues, 1880.

The co-defendants in the above entitled cause, Frederick Schwartz, James Bissell, Virginia Bissell, and George R. Bissell, her husband, Eugene Bissell, Catherine Bissell, Cora R. Bissell, Louis H. Bissell and Annie Haight Bissell, having been returned "not found" by Constable James Carroll, of the Fifth District, of the city of St. Louis, Mo., to whom the summons in the above case had been issued, and it appearing from plaintiff's affidavit, that the aforesaid co-defendants are non-residents of the State of Missouri, it is, therefore, on motion of plaintiff, ordered that said co-defendants be notified that a civil action has been commenced against them, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a special judgment in favor of Leopold Schmalz, the plaintiff herein, for the sum of thirty-nine dollars and eighty-two cents ($39 82) with interest thereon from the 15th day of November, 1878, at the rate of 15 per cent per annum, by reason of a special tax bill (number 12,193) issued by the President of the Board of Public Improvements of the city of St. Louis against the followings described real estate, situate and lying in the city of St. Louis and State of Missouri, to-wit:

Lot No. —— in city block No. 2,446, said ground having an aggregate front of 120 feet by a depth of 231.54 feet, bounded north by Grand avenue, east by Allen's estate, south by Orrick and west by Wyerth.

And unless they be and appear before the above named Justice, P. J. Taaffe, duly elected for and residing within the Fifth District, composed of the First and Seventeenth Wards of the City of St. Louis, Missouri, on the seventeenth day of November, A. D. 1880, at the hour of 12 o'clock noon, at his office, No. 605 Chestnut street in the aforesaid Fifth District, then and there to answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against them as confessed.

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis POST-DISPATCH, a newspaper printed and published in the aforesaid city of St. Louis.

Given under my hand this 27th day of September, A. D. 1880.

Administrators' Notices.

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE.—Notice is hereby given that as Public Administrator for the City of St. Louis, and as such in charge of the estate of Bernard Heidacker, deceased, and in pursuance of an order made by the Probate Court for the City for St. Louis, at the September term, A. D. 1880, I will sell on between the hours of 10 o'clock in the forenoon and 5 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the east front door of the Court-house, in the city of St. Louis, State of Missouri, at public auction, to the highest bidder, all the right, title and interest of deceased in and to the following described property, situate in the city of St. Louis, Missouri, to-wit:

MONDAY, THE 22D DAY OF NOVEMBER, A. D. 1880,

1. Lot No. ten (10) in block number one hundred and eight of Julia C. Soulard's third addition to the city of St. Louis, according to the plat of said addition recorded in the Recorder's office of the city of St. Louis, said lot being thirty feet front on the east side of Menard street, running eastwardly with the same width one hundred and fourteen feet to an alley twenty feet wide, and being the same premises which said Heidacker acquired of James G. Soulard and wife by deed dated October 5th, 1852, and recorded in book "K" No. 6, page 518, of the Recorder's office for the city of St. Louis.

2. Lot number one in block number one hundred and fifteen of Julia C. Soulard's third addition to the city of St. Louis, said lot having a front of thirty feet on the east side of Menard street, by a depth eastwardly of one hundred and fourteen (114) feet, and being the same premises which the said Heidecker acquired of Barbara Klein by deed dated the 2d day of July, 1866, recorded in the Recorder's office of the city of St. Louis, in book 317, page 375.

The attention of merchants and business men generally is especially directed to the above sale, as both pieces of property have substantial brick stores with large and commodious dwellings over them. The deceased conducted a large and prosperous grocery and feed store business on the premises for over twenty years.

Terms of sale cash.

Its Correspondents are at all the principal Fountains of News, and spare neither Money, Labor nor Brains to be the EARLIEST, the most COMPLETE and the most RELIABLE Historians of the Incidents and Accidents of the Day throughout the World. It will maintain its Excellent Record of being the Most Thorough and the Most Accurate Chronicle of the Local Happenings of St. Louis, enjoying, as it does, facilities for gathering information which are not shared by any other journal in the city.

Editorially it will continue to urge good, old-fashioned Democracy as the only Rational System of Government, and in the coming struggle between IMPERIALISM and FREE INSTITUTIONS it will be found at all times in the lead, fighting the Battle of the People beneath the Standard of Law, Liberty and Local Self-Government. Though Democratic, our Democracy is preceded by an allegiance to Truth and Honesty, and, once convinced that truth to itself or honesty to the public demand it, it has proved in the past that it will spare neither censure nor rebuke within or without the party when it deems them necessary. Its principles are tolerably familiar to the people of the State, as they have been repeatedly and frankly stated, and on every question from hard, sound Money to Western Improvements everybody knows that a definite position has been taken and held.

THE WEEKLY POST-DISPATCH.

The WEEKLY POST-DISPATCH has been established to be to Missouri what the Daily is to St. Louis, and the manner in which it has been taken up—evidenced by the surest of all testimony, the subscription list—shows that a progressive, enterprising, live Newspaper can command success in itself, without adventitious aid, and with no recommendation except that of innate and superior merit. The WEEKLY POST-DISPATCH has already become an institution which Missourians cannot afford to do without, for, in the character of its news and the practical value of all its matter, it is almost a necessary household article to every farmer or merchant in the country. The markets are brought down to the very moment of going to press, just a day ahead of any morning contemporary, for, in the nature of things, a paper printed in the morning cannot contain as late news as a paper printed in the evening and going out by the same evening's mail. The importance of this one consideration, were there no other, would be enough to place the WEEKLY POST-DISPATCH far beyond any competitor, for a day's intelligence from a fluctuating market may save or make a business. The Weekly is specially edited to give a complete history of the week brought down to 4 o'clock of the day of issue, each subject having its carefully considered space, and its proper application to the business, the domestic, or the social wants of its readers.

The year of our Lord 1880 opens with a promise of solid prosperity, the like of which has not been known since the War. The piping times of Peace in all their fullness and plenty foster industry and enterprise in the land. Every wheel that turns, and every share that rolls the mellow loam up to the ripening sun, is driven by the sturdy arm of a citizen whose vote will be cast in this crisis-year either to make this happy promise a permanent reality of true popular self-government, or to see in its stead a sham Republic, with its attendants of a military, personal, centralized Government, eternal sectional strife and certain Mexicanization.

The POST-DISPATCH will appeal during the coming year to the conscience and patriotism of all true Americans who would keep the sacred and revered fires of Liberty alight to rally to its support during a season which will witness the bitterest and the most important Political Canvass which the American Republic has been yet called upon to enter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

The POST-DISPATCH will be delivered by carriers to any part of the city or sent by mail, postage prepaid, to subscribers in any part of the Union, on the following terms:

|---|---|
| Daily, per week.................. | 20 cents. |
| Daily, per month.................. | 85 cents. |
| Daily, three months.............. | $2 50 |
| Daily, six months................ | 4 50 |
| Daily, per year.................. | 9 00 |

The carriers will collect the city subscriptions on their routes; all subscriptions by mail must be prepaid, and annual subscriptions will not be considered unless accompanied by the money.

EAST ST. LOUIS.

Amil Petri, the tramp from Chicago, was released this morning on a promise of immediately leaving the city.

Coroner Bader will hold an inquest on the body of Kate Sullivan, the young girl that died last night of heart disease.

Wm. Tobin, a carpenter by trade, was arrested by Officer Sullivan this morning for being a suspicious-looking character.

Officer Zimmerman found Harry Pearson prowling around the streets in a suspicious-looking manner. Pearson now occupies quarters in the jail.

Thomas Enright, the boy that was run over a few days ago on the tracks of the East St. Louis and Caronde'et R. R. Co., died last night from his injuries.

The twelve boys from Chicago arrested by the police force in the vicinity of the Relay Depot, last night, were released this morning for want of prosecution.

Andrew Guhl appeared before Justice Noton this morning to answer the charge of peddling without license. The evidence was convincing, and Guhl was fined $3 and costs.

The Mayor appointed as a Committee of Three, to devise ways and means to abate the Helm's Lye city nuisances, John J. McLean, Levi Baugh, Jr., and Thomas Hannifan.

A young gentleman in the lithographing business, whose name begins with an "S," took two orders yesterday for 100,000 stamped checks each from two of our city banks. We have a young man in the banking business also.

About 10 o'clock this morning Officer Wm. Wallace found James Druyane lying in the streets in an almost insensible condition. After examination it was found that whisky was the cause of all his trouble. He was furnished quarters in the Police Station.

Frank Healy, a promising young politician of the Fourth Ward was united in matrimony last evening to Miss Ann Eliza Dowling, daughter of Col. Dowling. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. S. Mooney, at the residence of the bride. The affair was quite a private one, only a few select friends being present.

The council passed a resolution last evening authorizing the Mayor to inquire into the right of the East St. Louis Railroad Company to maintain an obstruction on Dyke avenue and empowered the Mayor to have their tracks removed if found advisable, and that the City Marshal and Street Supervisor be directed to act under the orders of the Mayor in removing the obstruction.

Everybody Pleased.

Everybody who examines or uses the Charter Oak Cook Stove is pleased with its great capacity, superior construction, neat appearance, cleanliness in operation, and the construction of its Reservoir and closet, and say it is unequaled as a perfect Cooking Stove.

ANOTHER MASKED ROBBERY.

A House on King's Highway Entered and the Owner Knocked Down and Gagged.

Henry Miller, living on King's Highway and Vista avenue, reports that on the night of the 15th inst. his house was entered by two masked burglars, who knocked him down, gagged and robbed him of $24 35. He was so excited that he paid no attention to the men, and as they left immediately after securing the money he did not have an opportunity to notice anything particular about them, and now can give no description of the men.

Safe and Reliable.

A. W. Brown, M. D. of Providence, R. I., says: "I have used HUNT'S REMEDY in my practice for the past sixteen years, and cheerfully recommend it as being a safe and reliable remedy." All diseases of the Kidneys, Liver, Bladder and Urinary Organs are cured by HUNT'S REMEDY.

Spontaneous Combustion.

A trunk full of old rags in the cellar of dwelling No. 909 Mound street, occupied by John Ceoper and owned by Margaret Tolle, was discovered on fire at 12:45 this a. m. by John Miller and J. J. Reilly, who extinguished the blaze. No damage was done except to trunk and contents. The occupants of the house could not give the slightest cause for the fire, which was in all probability the result of spontaneous combustion.

BOYS' overcoats and ulsterettes at the Golden Eagle.

First District Police Court.

Forty offenders were called before Judge Jecko to-day. Cases against William Piles, John Murphy and Leopold Schmalz were continued. Jessie Howard was fined $25 for disturbing the peace. On the same charges Josephine Irvin was fined $5, and Mike O'Brien $5. A number of small fines were imposed in minor cases.

BEAUTY marred by a bad complexion may be restored with Glenn's Sulphur Soap. Of all druggists.

"Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye," black or brown, 50c.

Insane in His Cell.

A man named Andy Williams, from Quincy, Ill., was locked up at the Third District Station for being drunk in the street. A little while after the key was turned in the lock Williams was seized with an epileptic fit, insanity following with other seizures. He was turned over by the police to the health authorities.

GERMAN BAPTISTS.

Closing Day's Session of the Triennial Conference.

Discussion on the Constitution—Other Work—The Proceedings.

The fifth and last day's session of the Triennial German Baptists' Convention was opened this morning without the customary prayer meeting. The devotional portion of the proceedings was dispensed with, as the time of the convention was pressing and the session was limited to to-day. The Moderator, Professor Schaeffer, promptly called the conference to order and the remaining business before it was immediately proceeded with. The principal business of the morning session was the discussion of the report of a committee appointed to revise the constitution of the conference and submit the result of its labors to that body. The most salient point in the new Constitution proposed by the committee is the suggested mode of representation in the conference. Heretofore each church elected a delegate to the triennial conference, whereas by the method which the committee now advises for adoption only each conference, of which there are five, will have the power of electing and sending delegates to the general conference. Each church will elect delegates to the conference to which they belong and in turn the different conferences will elect delegates to the general conference. The committee's report called forth a spirited discussion, and will in all probability be adopted, although some amendments of an important character will be made. A suspension of the discussion of the new constitution was made in order to allow the Rev. Dr. Tooley, of Freeport, Ill., the presiding elder of the General Conference of Illinois, to read to the conference a congratulatory resolution in which the efforts and labors of its members are eulogized in a most flattering manner. As soon as the question of the revised constitution is settled, that of making provision for the conduction of the German Baptist Orphan Asylum at Louisville, Ky., for the ensuing three years will be taken up and disposed of. This will not take place, however, until late in the afternoon. The Revs. J. Meier, Becker and G. Gorr, the committee appointed by Moderator Schaeffer to appoint the time and place of the next conference, have not reported as yet, but will do so before the conference adjourns this evening.

It is pretty generally understood, however, that the next conference will be held somewhere in the East and most likely in Philadelphia, as the last two have been held in the West. The members of the present conference seem highly elated over the result of their deliberations and congratulate each other upon the harmony which prevailed throughout their sessions. They also desire to return thanks to the members of the First German Baptist Church of St. Louis for the hospitable manner with which they were treated during their sojourn in the "Future Great." Before the day is ended most of the delegates will be en route to their homes, carrying with them happy mental souvenirs of their brief stay in St. Louis. All of the members agree in stating that this was one of the most important conclaves ever held by the German Baptists, and predict very beneficial results to the church in consequence.

REMEMBER TO go to-night to Druids' Hall, Ninth and Market streets. The last evening of the crowded Fair and Festival for the old Cathedral.

CARONDELET JOTTINGS.

One week from to-night the complimentary entertainment by Jupiter Lodge Knights of Honor.

The fair and festival to be given by the parish of Father Daly commences to-night at Gillick's Hall.

Politically matters are very quiet in this part of the city except in the way of registration. It is safe to say from the interest manifested in this respect that this ward will poll an unusually large vote.

The employes at the Vulcan appear to be peculiarly unfortunate, as accidents are frequent among them. Last night a mold in the converting department, after being filled with melted steel, exploded and one of the men was severely burned by the hot metal.

A rather singular occurrance in the case of a runaway team took place yesterday. The team belonged to a farmer by the name of Foster who was returning from the city, and when near the corner of Fourth and Taylor streets the horses were frightened and started on a run, the owner keeping in the wagon but unable to stop them. Opposite Gillick's Hall one of the horses dropped dead as suddenly, almost, as it shot.

RAFFLES, AUCTION and splendid music at the Cathedral Fair.

COME TO GRIEF.

How a Police Justice Frustrated the Fond Hopes of a Venturesome Country Boy.

Private Watchman Ryan, of the Iron Mountain Railroad, doing duty at the foot of Miller street, yesterday arrested John W. Kincaid. Kincaid is a young country boy so green that a cow would eat him. He is from Montgomery county, and at some time in his life he got hold of a dime novel, which he thumbed to his heart's content, and then resolved to start out in the world and fight and kill and have blood and thunder in every possible shape and form. He got as far at the foot of Miller street in the city of St. Louis, when a commonplace railroad watchman working for a paltry pittance suddenly enshrouded in darkness this imaginary highway to fame, which heretofore was lighted up by pistol and gun flashes and burning houses and frightful things generally. Kincaid now reclines on the soft side of the iron seats in the dock of the First District Police Court contemplating the sad reality of his position. When he reached this city he was armed to the teeth. In his hip pocket he carried a shining bowie knife, the very look of which would made the blood of the average Indian run cold. At his side and suspended from a heavy, brass-mounted leather belt hung a horse pistol, a regular artillery in itself. When Ryan came upon him he had entrenched himself in the rear end of an empty box-car, and this position he resolved to defend at the cost of his life. Private Watchman Ryan carries a "pop," too, and when Kincaid saw this all the bravery he has been storing up for the past six months oozed out from every finger and toe and an understanding was soon arrived at. Now the low ordinances of the city of St. Louis do not contemplate anything glorious, grand and heroic and speedy such business as entrenching one's self in a box car as a trespass. Judge Jecko, before whom Kincaid was arraigned this morning, and who sees everything by the dim light of the city's laws, adjudged him guilty of trespass and fined him $10.

GO TO-NIGHT to the Cathedral's great Fair and Festival.

THE OKLAHOMA BOOM.

Secret Meeting of the Managers To-Day—Talk with Captain Payne.

The chiefs of the Oklahoma movement will hold a meeting this evening, to devise ways and means for their proposed march into the Indian Territory and determine when the onslaught shall be made. There are several of the originators in town, including Captain Payne, Judge Locke, W. A. Sherman, Col. Boudinot, the attorney, and several others. Mr. Steele, the president of Oklahoma township, was in the city yesterday, but left for Atchison last night. A talk with several of the gentlemen brought out the expression that they were determined to get into Oklahoma and stay there. Capt. Payne, the president of the colony, is brimful of sanguine expectations, and delivered himself in this wise:

"We will go there with between 5,000 and 7,000 people, including men, women and children. We want to go peaceably, of course, and don't wish to invite the attention of the Government."

"What do you mean by that?"

"Well, we will have to pass through about sixty-five miles of territory belonging to the Cherokees before we get into the public lands. The Government might pooh-pooh us then when thus infringing on the Reservation. After we get into Oklahoma we do not anticipate any trouble. If they arrest us, why, we will go with them, but they will have a hard time of it. There will be women with us who will lie down on the ground and refuse to stir a peg. They can't shoot us; neither are they permitted to massacre us."

"Do you apprehend any fighting?"

"Oh, no. If the Government troops feel inclined to kill a few of us I suppose it will be all right, but I do not think any such ordeal will be forced upon us."

"What do you intend to do at the meeting this afternoon?"

"We will assemble, that is, the heads of the various organizations of colonists throughout the country, and compare notes. We want to see how many people we can rely upon, and how many can provide for themselves on the journey. All other incidental matters will be discussed and decided upon."

"Will you determine the date of leaving for Oklahoma?"

"Yes, but that will be kept secret, as we want to have as little trouble as possible."

THE cold wave has caused a lively demand for overcoats. The rush for them at the Golden Eagle is tremendous.

THE RAILROAD FIGHT.

Fares Down to Bottom Figures to Chicago and Kansas City.

There is absolutely nothing new to chronicle to-day about the railroad war. Intense quiet prevails around the interested ticket offices, and there is no more than a good ordinary demand for Chicago tickets. For Kansas City the demand is somewhat better, but still there is nothing approximating a rush. The rates prevailing are the same as those quoted yesterday except that there are no unlimited tickets on sale. All the roads are selling for one dollar to Chicago, and the same to Kansas City, with the exception of the Missouri Pacific, which still adheres to $2 70. The Wabash, however, has a round trip Chicago ticket, good for three days, which is selling for $3 40. There is not much demand for these, as a person can go to Chicago for a dollar and then buy a ticket back for about another dollar. All the Western roads are also selling limited tickets to Council Bluffs at $6 50 and to Omaha at $7. The $4 70 unlimited tickets, which have been taken off sale, are not changing hands to any great extent. Some of the brokers say they know of speculators who are still willing to take them in small quantities, but there are undoubtedly many private speculators who would like to be out of the scrape even. In addition to the fact that the market is greatly overstocked and that the ordinary travel will not use up the tickets now out for several years, the speculators have dropped into another sorrow which in their eagerness they overlooked, but which now stares them blankly in the face. There is an ordinance here requiring any vender of railroad tickets to pay a special brokers' license of $50 a year and give a bond for $1,000 with two good real estate securities. No man dare offer a ticket for sale on the street or advertise them until he has settled with the City Collector. This ordinance was prepared some years ago at the desire of the city ticket brokers to protect themselves against curbstone brokers and speculators. If they hear of a party selling a ticket, or advertising a ticket, they pounce an officer onto him and the City Collector is notified. This will make it impossible for those possessing large quantities of these Chicago tickets to get rid of them without putting them into the hands of a broker. There are now ten ticket scalping firms paying license in the city, and they and their friends are loaded up with about all these tickets they can carry or dispose of for some time. Of course they will not sell tickets for other parties without a good commission.

LAST NIGHT of the Cathedral celebration at Druids' Hall, Ninth and Market streets.

A FASHIONABLE EVENT.

Miss Libbie Hutchinson and Mr. R. E. Lewis to be Wedded To-Morrow at Salisbury, Mo.

Mr. R. E. Lewis, Secretary of the Lewis Coal Company, and son of the late B. W. Lewis, of Glasgow, Mo., is a well known and popular young member of St. Louis society. Mr. Lewis will to-morrow be united in marriage to a belle of Salisbury, amid surroundings of an unusually elegant nature. The groom left last night in a special car for Salisbury, accompanied by a number of friends, among them L. G. McNair, Chiles W. Carr, and T. T. Lewis, who will act as groomsmen; also Wm. Spear and B. W. Lewis, Jr., late President of the St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern Railroad, and brother of the groom, and his family. The bride will be Miss Libbie N. Hutchison, daughter of Mr. J. Hutchison, a prominent merchant of Salisbury. The event takes place to-morrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the Baptist Church in Salisbury. The Rev. Mr. Root, of New York, will come on especially to perform the ceremony. There will be five bridesmaids and groomsmen, and the usual other attendants. At the completion of the ceremony a special train will be in waiting to take the entire bridal party up to Glasgow, where Mrs. E. T. Lewis, mother of the groom, will give a reception from 8 o'clock till 12. Quite a number of friends will go up to Salisbury to-night to be present at the ceremony and reception to-morrow. On Thursday there will be a grand wedding dinner tendered the happy couple at the leading hotel at Glasgow, by their many friends, at the close of which the entire bridal party will leave in a special train for St. Louis. From St. Louis Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will go East via the Vandalia to visit relatives and be absent several weeks.

FOR nobby overcoats young men should buy the new style Paletot, at the Golden Eagle.

NORTH ST. LOUIS LOCALS.

Mrs. Adam Destridge, of 3615 Broadway, is lying dangerously ill, and no hopes of her recovery.

The employes of the Auburn Wheel Company will have their pay increased twenty five cents per day from Monday next.

The Truth Union, Jefferson Lodge, No. 123, will meet at the Montgomery House to take action on the proposed revision of their by-laws.

The North St. Louis lumber dealers are now shipping nearly 1,000,000 feet of lumber per day, but can not get cars enough to keep up with their orders.

The Social Turners, 300 strong, are making extensive arrangements for their annual festival, hop and street parade, but the date has not yet been settled on.

The lumber pullers in North St. Louis have struck for twelve and a half cents per course for crib lumber. They struck for the same price two weeks ago but did not receive it.

This morning a team of horses attached to the hay wagon of Charles Tamm ran away on Grand and Barrett avenues, upsetting the wagon and doing probably $25 damages.

To-night Pride of the West Lodge, Odd Fellows, will have two prominent city officials to put through the degree of initiation, and a large number of visitors from the local lodges are expected to attend the interesting work.

COME and see the elegant diamonds and watches sold at auction at Cooper's, 405 North Fourth street, to-night.

A Bad Case of Trespassing.

Frank Leschk is a young fellow of eighteen, of the tight-leg, wide-bottom jeans pants stripe. Clerk Thomas, of the First District Police Court, to-day read Frank a charge of trespassing, and invited him to answer the same. The principal prosecuting witness, Mr. Ghio, of a hardware store at No. 1720 Carondelet avenue, testified that he had for a long time been missing small sums of money, pocket knives, etc., which mysteriously disappeared during the night. A man was finally put in the store, and during the night Frank put in an appearance, making his entry through a window. These facts showed the trespass to be of the worst description, and Frank was fined $50.

Legal Brevities.

The naturalization boom still progresses.

The suit of Farley against the Citizens' Insurance Company is still progressing in the U. S. Circuit Court.

The Connell divorce case, which has been before the courts for some time, was this morning dismissed on motion of plaintiff.

In the ejectment suit of Mary Vogel vs. John H. Lange, Judge Adams this morning rendered his decision giving judgment for Mary Vogel, with $280 damages and $80 rents, etc.

Didn't Pay His Board.

According to Patrick Daly, Thomas Welsh is a man who does not pay his debts. Daly and his wife, Helen, have sued Welsh for $797, the sum alleged to be due them for board, lodging, washing and other incidentals dependant upon a two years and nine months' residence with them at the rate of $20 per month.
